FOLDING BEDS

You Can Do Almost Anything

With our Gosben folding bed. There used to be an idea that two into one wouldn't go; this bed upsets the notion completely. It doesn't, like the chameleon, change its color, but it does change its character, and it is as handsome as a bed at night as it is as a book-case in the day-time. It is one of the happiest combinations of modern ingenuity, and in an instant it turns your sleeping apartment into a handsomely appointed library. Perhaps you have an idea that this double advantage carries with it a double cost. It does not. Call and see it and learn the price.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Nov. 2, 1892.

The storm which was central over Missouri yesterday morning has moved rapidly northeastward and is now central over the eastern end of Lake Erie. It has left a trough of low pressure that extends from the Gulf of Mexico to the eastern end of the lake region.

The area of high pressure which covered the Atlantic coast yesterday, and the one over the upper lake region have joined together and now cover the northeast portion of the country, and is causing the storm over Lake Erie to decrease in energy. A second area of high pressure is central over Colorado and moving eastward and will probably cause clearing and colder weather over the lakes sometime to-morrow.

The temperature has changed but slightly over the eastern half of the country; in the west it has fallen over Nebraska, Colorado and North Dakota; it has risen over the extreme northwest.

During the past 24 hours rains have fallen over the entire lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and over the New England states; in the west it has snowed and is snowing this morning over the St. Lawrence valley.

Storm signals are displayed on Lake Erie to-day for easterly gales.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity for the next 36 hours—Showers, followed by clearing and cooler weather on Thursday; brisk to high winds.

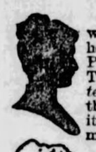
BOODLE CAMPAIGN.

Corruption Fund Grows Amazingly.

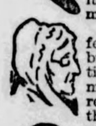
Frick Puts in a Quarter of a Million He Has Ground From the Workingmen.

New York, Nov. 2.—The World this morning says that the "boodle" collected from the protected manufacturers of Pennsylvania has reached the sum of $1,000,000. Henry C. Frick, the paper says, recently paid $250,000 and rounded out the million, which is now at the disposal of Matt Quay and Chairman Tom Carter.

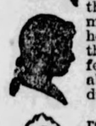
The World also says that the sugar trust will contribute $100,000 as part payment for free raw sugar and a tax on the refined article.



All ages, and all conditions of womanhood will find just the help that woman needs, in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That's a matter that's guaranteed. If it can't be done, then the medicine costs you nothing—its makers don't want your money.



Get it, if you're a tired or suffering woman, and get well. It builds up and invigorates the entire system, regulates and promotes the proper functions, and restores health and strength. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results.



For all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

You pay only for the good you get. Can you ask more?

DRAPER & NUGENT

THE GILCHER

Has Gone to the Bottom of the Lake.

Another Big Steel Steamer Goes Down,

And Carries With Her a Human Cargo.

Eighteen Lives Lost on Lake Michigan.

No Doubt Entertained in Marine Minds But That the Fine Steamship Has Sunk Beneath the Seas.

The great gale of last Friday and Saturday wrecked a large steamer and a schooner near South Manitou island, and it is almost certain that the crews of both boats were lost.

The steamer foundered near the island.

The schooner John Shaw, in tow of the steamer John F. Eddy, reached Chicago yesterday afternoon. The Shaw and Eddy had weathered the gale at anchor under the manitous.

"When off South Manitou, on our way to Chicago," Capt. George Dennis, of the Shaw, said, "we passed through a large quantity of wreckage. Doors, stools, window sash, and part of a steamer's bridge, with the bell still upon it, were floating in the lake. The stanchions to the bridge, which was painted white, were of striped oak. The bridge was about five feet wide, fore and aft, but I do not know how long it was. The doors had in the two panels. The glass, of course, was broken out. We could see nothing which would give any indication o wh name of the unfortunate craft was."

Capt. Dennis also reported that a medium-sized schooner, with her bilge and part of her bottom showing was on the beach off the island. She had a cargo of hemlock lumber. The bottom had been newly calked.

Later News.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 2.—J. C. Gilchrist, of Vermillion, managing owner of the steamer W. H. Gilcher, is here and is surrounded in his office by all the leading vessel owners, who have done little or no business all the morning. Nearly all of them are owners of steel vessels and this second disaster which now seems certain, has created intense excitement.

Nothing of a definite nature has been heard by the owners of the boat since she passed Mackinaw, just previous to the storm of Friday, but Mr. Gilchrist, as well as all other owners here, agree that the fact that the Gilcher should have been in Milwaukee before Sunday at the least, is sufficient evidence that she has gone down, and a description of wreckage corresponds in general to the upper works of the Gilcher.

The only members of the crew known here is Capt. L. M. Weeks, of Vermillion. First Mate Edward Porter, of Lorain, O.; Chief Engineer Sidney Jones, of Marine City. An oiler, named Thomson, who formerly lived in Vermillion, but whose home is in Chicago.

A wheelman, named King, was also of Vermillion.

The crew numbered 17 or 18 and were largely filled up in Buffalo two weeks ago, when several young men left the boat.

The boat had no passengers.

All the officers named are men of families and they had followed the lakes for many years.

As the Gilcher is loaded with 3,000 tons of coal from Buffalo, drawing only 15 feet of water, she was in good trim and would have a side out of water about nine feet. This leads to the conclusion on all sides that she must have been in collision or struck a treacherous reef due south about four miles from South Fox Island, on which there is but 14 feet of water with deep water all around it.

President Henry D. Coffinberry, of the Cleveland Ship Building company, which built the Gilcher, as well as the Western Reserve, is of course very much disturbed over the result of the disaster, especially as the Gilcher was an exact duplicate of the Western Reserve, excepting that the latter had more power.

He holds with others here that the accident must have been due to striking the reef referred to or to collision, and still maintains that both boats were constructed after the best practice known to lake ship building.

From Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 2.—The fears that the big steel steamer W. H. Gilcher has been lost off South Manitou island in Lake Michigan seem to be realized, as Capt. Joe Gilchrist, managing owner, has given her up. The crew consisted of 17 men, principally from Vermillion, O.

Seems Certain.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 2.—J. C. Gilchrist, one of the principal owners of the steamer W. H. Gilcher, which is supposed to have gone down in Lake Michigan, has given the boat up as lost. He said shortly before noon to-day:

"I am now convinced that the reason we have not heard from the Gilcher is because there is none of the crew alive to tell the tale.

"There were 18 men aboard, with Capt. L. H. Weeks, of Vermillion, in command.

"His first mate was Capt. Ed Porter, of Lorain. Sydney Jones, of Marine City, Mich., was chief engineer. There was a wheelman, named King, who formerly lived in Vermillion, but has lately made his home in Chicago. The only sailor known by me was a young man named Thompson, who hailed from Vermillion.

"Formerlyy nearly the entire crew were from Vermillion, but about a month ago Capt. Weeks, while in Buffalo, discharged most of his old men and shipped new sailors, whose names have never been reported to the general office."

The Gilcher was an iron boat, built by the Cleveland Shipbuilding company and put into service a year ago last May. She was valued at $200,000 and was insured for $180,000. She had a cargo of 3,020 tons of coal and was bound from Buffalo to Milwaukee. She was last heard from when she passed Mackinaw, Friday. It is the general supposition here that she must have struck upon the South Fox reef during the storm Friday night and had a hole knocked in her bottom.

The builders of the Gilcher claim that the wreckage now being washed ashore does not tally with any part of the work on this boat. eHr owners are convinced, however, that she has gone down with all on board. She carried a large metallic life boat and enough small boats to carry thirty men. As far as is known here there were no passengers on the Gilcher when she left Buffalo.

Cheboygan.

Cheboygan, Nov. 2.—The only boats to arrive here from Lake Michigan since the storm was the steamer Pawnee and Hart. They can add no clue to the identity of the steamer lost near the Manitous.

At Anchor.

Duluth.

Duluth, Nov. 2.—Longshoremen win their strike and will get 40 cents an hour from now on. Shippers are offering nothing. The Mather and tow are loading at 4 cents to Buffalo and the London to Fairport. Duluth Shipped 5,031,237 bushels of wheat in October against 6,694,424 bushels a year ago.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Coal freights quiet and unchanged. Charters—Wilhelm, Lake Linden, 50c; Emory Owen, Chicago, 75c; Gilbert, Duluth, 25c. Grain receipts very light and vessels can now unload with good dispatch.

At Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 2.—The excitement among marine men here over the loss of the Gilcher is more intense if anything than that after the loss of the Western Reserve. Not a marine man here doubts that she foundered. Discussion over seaworthiness of big steel steamers is exceedingly warm.

At Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Nov. 2.—There is not the slightest doubt entertained here that the steamer which foundered near the Manitous is the W. H. Gilcher. She is still due here. Letters are here for Capt. L. H. Weeks, First Mate E. K. Porter and Sidney B. Jones, one of the crew of the Gilcher. The insurance on the steamer is $180,000.

The schooner reported ashore at the Manitous is thought to be the Ostrich, owned and commanded by Capt. John McKay.

GENERAL STRIKE IS ON

Big Business Disturbance in New Orleans.

The Union Men Want Recognition.

Citizens Holding a Meeting to Try and Avert What Would Be a Calamity.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.—A general strike was ordered by all the trades union organizations of this city at 12:30 o'clock this morning, taking effect to-day.

A meeting of all the parties concerned is now being held in the board of trade and the affair may be settled this morning.

Every business man in the city is directly interested in the movement which is now on.

The strike is the result of the merchants' refusal to recognize the labor organizations.

The Amalgamated council, composed of 67 bodies of the American Federation of Labor, decided to order out every organization in the city.

In the strike local typographical union has taken part and notice has been served on the various newspapers in the city that the men would walk out, after their work to-day.

The levees, steamboat landings and railroad depots are crowded with freight and should a general strike take place it will absolutely paralyze the city's commerce and throw out of employment between 25,000 and 30,000 men.

THE LITTLE "DOCTOR."

It Is Getting Many Dentists Into Trouble.

Germany Does Not Like to See Americans Get All the Trade.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—Something of a sensation has been caused in American circles here by the recent decision of the courts imposing heavy fines upon several American dentists in Germany for using the title "Doctor." The American dentists in Germany, as in many other countries of Europe, are superior to the native practitioners and for the past few years have been largely patronized by the higher classes, and in view of these facts the statement has been made by members of the profession that the recent action of the courts was prompted by jealousy.

The only titles of doctor recognized in the empire are "Doctor of Medicine," "Doctor of Law," "Doctor of Theology," and "Doctor of Philosophy." It is held by the court that anyone practicing dentistry and using the title "Doctor" although he may posses such a diploma as "Doctor of Law" or of Theology, implies that he is a "Doctor of Medicine," thus misleading the public.

AN OFFICER SHOT.

He Had Overtaken Two Black Thieves.

While Searching the Basket of One the Other Fired a Fatal Bullet.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—B. F. Myers, merchant policeman on College avenue, in the northeastern section of the city, shortly before 1 o'clock this morning met two colored men.

Each was carrying a basket and both acted like thieves.

While searching the basket of one, the other negro shot him through the head, the ball entering near the left ear and ranging downward. The wound is supposed to be mortal. The negroes escaped.

THE GILL CASE

Now Being Heard in Common Pleas Court.

A Jury Secured and Told What Both Sides

Would Prove by the Testimony to Follow.

Ex-Councilman R. P. Swain the First Witness.

He Relates Substantially the Same Story as Told in the Daly Case —Cross-Examination in Progress.

The Gill case progresses with more dispatch than the Daly trial did, for the reason that loss time is consumed in the discussion of technical points, the grounds having been gone over before, and very few new points come up and the court rulings in that case are maintained in this.

However, public interest is unabated, and the court room is crowded as before. The contest in this case is going to be more evenly divided.

When the Bee went to press yesterday the state was endeavoring to fill the panel from a special venire, which was returned at a late hour.

At 3:30 John Bayer, the first man of the second venire, was called to the box and sworn.

On examination by the state, Mr. Bayer said that he knew Mr. Gill and the other indicted councilmen. He stated that he had formed an opinion based on the newspaper reports.

Mr. Barber asked Mr. Bayer if sworn as a juror, whether he could lay aside that opinion and render a verdict according to the evidence in the case. Mr. Bayer very likely misunderstood the prosecutor and in reply said he thought it was a pretty clear case. He said that he would maintain his opinion regardless of the evidence.

Mr. Barber submitted a challenge for cause, and the juror was dismissed.

Charles Reynolds was next called. Mr. Reynolds had formed an opinion on the newspaper reports. He had no opinion with regard to Mr. Gill individually, and thought he could render a just and true verdict according to the evidence and law in the case.

Mr. Wright exercised his peremptory right, and Mr. Reynolds was excused.

Jonas Stansbury was next called. He thought he had an opinion, but it did not refer to Mr. Gill, but all of the indicted men generally. He knew of no reason why he could not serve as a juryman.

The state admitted him, and the defense found no cause for challenge. The state passed its peremptory right, and the jury was sworn exactly at ten minutes of four. It consists of the following named gentlemen:

William Bell, Charles Skelly, John Frederick, Jonas Stansbury, Wm. Tunis, Jno. Conway, Charles Collins, Daniel Dewey, Horatio Atkins, George McBride, Robert Law, Malcom Matcher.

Mr. Barber then gave a brief outline of the case the state will develop on the stand. He stated that they would show that a conspiracy had been organized comprising ten members of the council board, for the purpose of influencing the vote of the council for value received.

That the first meeting was held at Councilman Neuendorf's store, about the middle of last May, after committee meeting on Thursday night. He referred to the meeting held in the dark, of the solemn pledge taken, while standing hand in hand; to the statement made by Doner, as to the object of the combine, being to influence legislation, and that certain corporations might be willing to pay for the influence. He reviewed the case as developed in the Daly prosecution and presented in the Bee in detail. The meeting at Tanner's office, second session at Neuendorf's store, and the meeting at Fisher's club house, were all referred to in Mr. Barber's statement.

The fact that the Pluto Oil company had introduced an ordinance in the council at this time for a franchise to construct and operate a pipe line to transport oil from the field. That the vote stood 9 to 9 to table the ordinance on the first vote. That Mr. Gill had stated that he would vote for the ordinance, and introduced it, but that the company had better look out, as there was a combination on to defeat the ordinance, unless money was paid to prevent.

That at the meeting at Fisher's club house, all who were present, including Mr. Gill, had resolved to vote the Pluto ordinance down unless $5,500 was paid That soon after Mr. Machen, of the company, learned that the resolve had been made and he went and saw Mr. Gill, and said: "Gill, I know why the ordinance will be opposed; they want boodle." That Gill replied, "Was there ever a council on earth that did not want boodle?"

Mr. Barber continued to state that the Pluto Oil company then resolved to break up the combine if possible. He then described the arrangement of the office, and the employment of Stenographer Bassett, who was secreted in the cellar at the opening of a trap door, where he could hear any and all conversation that ensued in the room.

The conversation between Tanner and Geo. E. Lorenz, as taken by the stenographer, was briefly presented by the prosecution. That Tanner stated that he could get the ordinance through the council for $5,500, in the "long green." That a combination had been formed, under oath, and that the ordinance could not be passed unless the combination said so. That Tanner went out and got Daly, who said that what Tanner represented was right, that he would not misrepresent anything, that if he would pay the $5,500 the ordinance would be passed. That Mr. Lorenz said that Gill would vote for their ordinance, to which Daly replied that Gill would vote for it if he said so. The two then went out and got Gill. When Gill arrived Mr. Lorenz remarked that he had figured on his (Gill's) support. That Gill replied that he had to stand by the combination or "get h—— knocked out of him," when he brought up any legislation. That what Daly said went as he was the "Grand Mogul."

Mr. Wright then made a statement for the defense. He stated that there was absolutely nothing that could be proven against Mr. Gill. That the defense would show that instead of being a member of a combination, a combination had been formed against him. That testimony would show that for the purpose of facilitating ward legislation, and benefiting the citizens of Toledo, these councilmen did meet informally. That there were various corporations, including the Standard Oil company, and a branch, the Pluto Oil company, harassed and hounded the councilmen in the committee room and at their homes, and every influence possible brought to bear, to procure votes for the passage of this ordinance. That it was the intention of the Pluto Oil company to procure this franchise for the purpose of selling it to the Standard Oil company. That men of influence approached the councilmen, on every hand, and endeavored by every means to procure the passage of the ordinance. That the people of the Sixth ward did not want the ordinance passed and appealed to their representative to use his power to oppose the same. That failing by this method, the Pluto Oil company, by its officers offered money to secure the passage of the ordinance. That failing in this, the trap was set in the office so that the result might show that members of the council did come to their office to solicit a bribe, when on the contrary they had endeavored to bribe him. That when Gill left, he stated positively he would not vote for the ordinance. Mr. Wright concluded at ten minutes of 5 o'clock, and court after enjoining the jury to abstain from discussing the case, adjourned.

To-Day's Proceedings.

When court opened this morning Ransom P. Swain was called to the stand by the state.

The examination in chief developed the same story as told by Mr. Swain in his testimony in the Daly case.

He told of the organization of the alleged combine at the first meeting at Neuendorf's office.

Judge Ritchie interposed an objection to the introduction of testimony as to the existence of any combination or meeting at which Mr. Gill was not present, the same objection being raised during the Daly trial.

The meeting at Neuendorf's store was assembled by personal invitation. He was invited by Mr. Rutherford. Mr. Gill was present at this meeting, as was James Faskins. As to what transpired at this meeting, Mr. Swain stated that if the councilmen would get together and form a combination, that it might benefit the members in a financial way. That he stated that such business was very dangerous, as soliciting a bribe, if convicted, meant punishment in the penitentiary. Mr. Gill stated as to this point, that there was no law in Ohio that made it a crime in any manner to receive or solicit bribes; that the crime was in receiving of money for the influence of votes.

The witness then related that Mr. Doner was elected chairman; that there might be somebody in the room who was "weak-kneed," and that it would be best to take some obligation; that all present stood up in a circle, hand in hand, and solemnly pledged themselves never to reveal what had transpired at any of the meetings. Mr. Gill was in the circle and took the pledge. He did not remember who spoke first in regard to the pledge.

As to what was said and done, Mr. Swain stated that different members said they would not solicit for money, and it was decided that James Faskins was chosen to represent the combine, in soliciting business, and a vote was taken to this effect, which vote was put by Chairman Doner. That Mr. Gill took the same part that the others did. That it was decided to take Mr. Felker into the meeting.

The proceeds resulting from the execution of this plan was to be divided equally among the members, Mr. Faskins included. He stated that certain members remarked that the Northwestern Natural Gas company, the Warren Scharf Paving company, the Paragon Oil company, and the Pluto Oil company were willing to pay something to get their respective ordinances through.

Witness testified the next meeting was held at Frack C. Tanner's insurance office on Cherry street, on the following Thursday night. There were present Tanner, Neuendorf, Doner, Gill, Felker, Rutherford and Swain. He had seen Mr. Felker and requested him to join the combination. That it was said that Mr. Jamse Southard had approached a member to have the Paragon ordinance passed. That James Faskins was instructed to see Mr. Southard and inform him that the ordinance could be passed for $11,000.

The court here instructed the jury that this evidence was not being introduced to prove the guilt of the accused, but to show that a conspiracy existed. That when the jury was convinced that such a conspiracy did exist, then if the accused or any member says or does in connection with this conspiracy is evidence against the defendant and should be so considered by the jury.

Mr. Swain continued that a statement was made by Mr. Tanner in objection to charging the Pluto Oil company's ordinances That Mr. Gill stated that the company was just as able to pay $5,000 as it was one dollar, that it was a part of the Standard Oil company, anyhow. Mr. Faskins was instructed to see a member of the Pluto Oil company about the price.

At this meeting Mr. Doner explained the object of the combination to Mr. Felker, who was present, and that gentleman stated that he would consider the matter.

The next meeting, Mr. Swain testified, was held at Neuendorf's store, on the following Thursday night. There were present Neuendorf, Tanner, Daly, Schmuhl, Gill, Swain, and was not sure about Taylor.

That Mr. Faskins was not present, and Mr. Gill stated that Faskins evidently did not have sand enough to interview the corporation, and it was his opinion that Faskins' services be dispensed with. It was moved that Mr. Daly be appointed as outside agent, and the motion was adopted by a viva voce vote.

Mr. Felker gave notice of his withdrawal and B. O. Manchester was elected, Mr. Swain being directed to notify him.

That Mr. Tanner stated that he had received an offer from the Northwestern Natural Gas company for the passage of the gas ordinance. Mr. Daly was directed to see Mr. Rogers, of that company. He was instructed to inform the company that the price would be $22,000. Mr. Daly was also instructed to see the Warren-Scharf Paving company and inform them that they would have to pay 10 per cent. on all contracts received.

The next meeting was held at Tanner's office, on Cherry street, the following Thursday evening. There were present Neuendorf, Tanner, Schumhl, Doner, Gill, Rutherford, Manchester, and Swain. At this meeting Mr. Tanner stated that he had seen Mr. Rogers, of the Northwestern Gas company, who said that the company was still willing to do something; that he was going to New York and attend a meeting of the directors and wanted to see them on his return.

Mr. Daly stated that he had been unable to see the Paragon company. Mr. Neuendorf stated that he had been approached by August Machen, of the Pluto Oil company, who had offered him $25,000 in Pluto stock for the passage of the ordinance.

That it was agreed then and there that no stock would be received—nothing but the "cold, hard cash."

Mr. Manchester was present and received instructions from Chairman Doner. That Mr. Manchester stated that it was very risky business, but that he would attend the meetings until in his judgment he felt it was not safe to longer participate.

Witness said that the next meeting was held at Neuendorf's store. There were present Neuendorf, Tanner, Schmuhl, Manchester, Daly, Gill, Swain and Mr. Taylor, he thought.

At this meeting some alarm was manifest, in statements made by members of the comment the action of the combine in the council relative to certain legislation was creating on the outside. Mr. Swain stated that he announced that he would no longer vote against the pavement of Monroe street, and that Mr. Manchester made a similar statement. It was agreed by those present to be careful in voting in the future, and if danger threatened, to vote as they pleased.

The ordinance to reconstruct the street railway tracks was discussed at this meeting. It was stated that the Consolidated had offered $10,000 for ten votes to defeat the ordinance, and Mr. Daly was directed to interview the Robison and the Pluto Oil company.

The next meeting was to have been held at Taylor's store, but was not, as Mr. Taylor failed to put in appearance.

These members were on hand, however, Doner, Neuendorf, Rutheford, Tanner, Gill. They went to Mr. Rutheford's store on Monroe street. Here a short session was held. Mr. Daly reported that no interviews had been obtained. It was agreed to meet on the following Monday at Fisher's club house.

At this meeting Mr. Swain stated that there were present Messrs Gill, Tanner, Daly, Felker, Taylor, Schumhl, Swain and Manchester. When witness arrived the members were in the bar-room. They went out to a summer house. Mr. Daly stated that he had interviewed Mr. Robison as to the Consolidated's intentions to buy ten votes, and that Mr. Robison had refused to pay a cent for the passage of the ordinance.

As to the Pluto ordinance, statement was made by Swain that they should not be compelled to pay for the ordinance, and that Mr. Gill repeated his statement as to the amount, and that the combination had been formed to stand by each other and it was the duty of the members to stand by their agreement. Before adjourning it was agreed to vote to lay the Pluto ordinance on the table. The council met that evening, and the ordinance was laid on the table. All members present at the club house attended the meeting of the council, with the exception of Mr. Felker.

This was objected to by the defense, and ruled out by the court on the ground that the records would show the vote, etc.

The witness stated that a short consultation was held at Taylor's store, on that Monday evening, but he did not think Mr. Gill was present.

Mr. Barber requested the witness to state what was said and done. An objection was made, and the court stated that the state must prove a conspiracy, and that it would not be proper to introduce evidence of the act of conspiracy in the defendant's absence.

Mr. Barber withdrew the question.

The next meeting, the witness stated, was held at Neuendorf's store. There were present Doner, Manchester, Tanner, Gill, Swain and Daly, to the best of his memory. This meeting was held on Saturday evening. Mr. Manchester gave notice that he would have nothing more to do with the combination, and that he (Swain) made a similar statement, and gave notice that in the future he would vote to protect himself and family. That he had information that the Pluto Oil company had or would take steps to have the members of the combination brought up before the grand jury and indicted.

Mr. Swain stated that there were no more meetings which he attended.

The state then turned the witness over to the defense, and Judge Ritchie conducted the cross-examination.

The meeting at Neuendorf's store was taken up.

Witness testified that Neuendorf was present when he arrived, but did not know whether Gill was present or not. He did not remember inviting Gill or any others to attend.

"How long were you in the store?"

"About an hour."

"How many were there without naming them?"

"Nine or ten."

"How did Faskins come to be there?"

"I do not know."

"What time did you leave?"

"About 12 o'clock."

"Did they all leave together?"

"Nearly so."

"You left the store by the front door?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you give anything of the detail of that meeting?"

"I have given all that I remember."

"All that you remember?"

"Yes, sir."

"Nine men present an hour and a half, and you have given all you remember that transpired?"

"All that I remember."

"Was there anything said about ward legislation?"

"There might have been, but I do not remember."

"How was the time consumed?"

"The subject was thoroughly discussed."

"Can you remember anything that was said?"

"I can repeat Mr. Gill's conversation."

"Why Mr. Gill any more than the others?"

"Because Mr. Gill made the statement that he was a lawyer and knew what he was talking about."

"Then did you feel safe after what Mr. Gill said?"

"To a certain extent, yes."

"Then you went into this alleged combination of your own accord, knowing what the result of your action might be?"

"I suppose I did."

Judge Ritchie then passed to the meeting at Tanner's office. Witness testified that he invited Mr. Felker to attend. The witness was not positive whether the meeting was held on Monday or Thursday night, neither could he give the positive date. That the fifth meeting was held at Neuendorf's store, and the witness would not swear to the date of the event.

"Now, Mr. Swain, was it not agreed at one of the meetings that the parties should be at liberty to vote as they pleased?"

"I think it was."

Judge Ritchie then called the witness' attention to testimony in the Daly case, as to his announcement to vote as he pleased and asked if it was true according to his present recollection, to which Mr. Swain replied that if that was evidence taken in the other trial, it was.

Mr. Swain repeated that the next meeting was held at Rutherford's store and the next at Fisher's club house. He thought the date was June 20, but was not positive. That the next meeting was held at Rutherford's store after the councilman meeting on the same night.

"Where was the next meeting held?"

"At Neuendorf's."

"Now, you are not able to recall whether Mr. Gill was present at Rutherford's or not?"

"No, sir; I am not."

"Then the last meeting at Neuendorf's store. Give the date of that meeting."

"July 2."

"You are certain of that date are you?"

"How is it you recalled that date so distinctly and not the others?"

"A gentleman called at my house and told me what the Pluto people proposed to do."

"Who was that party?"

"Frank M. Schmidt."

"He is connected with the Pluto Oil company, is he not?"

"Yes, sir; bookkeeper, I think."

"You called at the Pluto Oil office previous to July 2, did you not?"

"I did."

"When was this?"

"I think it was on Tuesday night."

"What did Mr. Schmidt communicate to you?"

The state objected on the ground that the examination did not go into this. Sustained.

"How are you able to recall this event by this interview with Schmidt?"

"Because the news he gave me was so startling that it would be fixed on anybody's mind."

"Did you look at the calendar?"

"Not at that time, but I did on the following Monday."

Court recessed until 2 o'clock, when the cross-examination of Mr. Swain was resumed.

FOREST FIRES.

They Are Descending Pennsylvania's Mountains.

Terrible Conflagration Raging in the Valuable Timber Lands.

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 2.—News reached here last evening that forest fires are raging along the mountain from Ohio Pyle to Delaney's Cave, a distance of 20 miles, and at more than a dozen places on the mountain range fires have broken out within three miles of this place and are spreading rapidly.

The summit, the point at which the national pike crosses the range, is entirely surrounded with fire and will soon be burned over.

At this one point valuable tracts of timber land have been wiped out and the fences, stacks and outlying buildings are being destroyed. In many cases stock has perished and the range and volume of fire is now so great as to threaten the destruction of the people on the isolated farms.

SLOWLY STARVING TO DEATH

This Was the Condition of Mrs. Mary Gorman Previous to Consulting Dr. Byers and His Associates.

Now She Is Well and Strong and Doing Household Work for a Family of Eight.

"It almost borders on the miraculous the success Dr. Byers and his associates had in my case," says Mrs. Mary Gorman, who resides on Sawyer street, Eighteenth ward. "I had been troubled a long time with terrible neuralgic pains in my head and face, ulcerated mouth and deranged stomach. The inside of my mouth was all covered with ulcers, my appetite was poor and I had not eaten any solid food for weeks before consulting them, on account of my mouth and stomach. I vomited everything I ate, could not even retain beef tea or milk on my stomach. I was very much reduced in flesh. Indeed, had it not been for the relief Dr. Byers and his associates afforded me, I would have soon starved to death.

"I could not lie down for the smothering sensation caused by the accumulation of gas in my stomach and bowels. It also caused shortness of breath, palpitation and fluttering of heart, cold hands and feet, etc., etc. I had to often walk the floor all night belching up gas from my stomach. This would give me temporary relief until it would form again.

"I tried everything I could hear of, but found no relief. Reading three months ago of the remarkable cure of Mrs. Lewis Zollinger, whose symptoms were identical with mine, excepting the mouth trouble, I determined to consult Dr. Byers and his associates and place myself under their treatment. I thought as they had cured her they could at least afford me some relief. My hopes were more than realized, for to-day I am a well woman and doing the housework for a family of eight, where three months ago some one had to wait on me. You cannot make this statement too strong, for the half has not been told, and cannot be realized. I will gladly tell any one who may call upon me what Dr. Byers and his associates have done for me."

TO BUSINESS MEN

Grover Cleveland Makes an Address.

The Great Corruption Fund Receives Attention.

The Time Has Gone by When a President Can Buy His Way Into the White House.

New York, Nov. 2.—Grover Cleveland spoke before the Business Men's Democratic association last night in the Lenox Lyceum, Madison avenue and Fifty-ninth street, devoting his entire attention to charges that prediction of republican success were "based upon the ability of that party to purchase the votes of the people" with money contributed by protected manufacturers. The audience numbered about 2,500 persons, and the two tiers of boxes were occupied mainly by women. The hall was handsomely draped, and Cappa's Seventh Regiment band furnished music.

Joseph J. O'Donohue escorted the ex-president to the platform at 8 o'clock. Mr. Cleveland was enthusiastically cheered again and again. Men waved their hats and small American flags fluttered eagerly from the hands of women in the boxes. Mr. Cleveland bowed repeatedly in acknowledgement. The cheering was renewed vigorously when, after the routine business had been gone through, the chairman, J. Edward Simmons, president of the association, introduced the ex-president, who said:

Mr. Cleveland's Speech.

"Fellow citizens: We have nearly reached the last hours of discussion in a campaign characterized by many unusual features and incidents. I venture the assertion that never in the recollection of any one here present has a presidential canvass been carried on with such a lack of noise and excitement, and in such an apparent atmosphere of popular thoughtfulness. If this is actually the condition, and if our voters are really thoughtful, it should be a cause of congratulation on the part of every American citizen; for it must be that sober deliberation in the exercise of the right of suffrage is the foundation of our hope for national perpetuity. None of us can complain of a political result which represents the conscientious and clear convictions of a majority of our people. When these convictions prevail it is the misfortune or fault of the party if it is defeated, because the principles it advocates are not understood by our voters, or if understood are not accepted.

"If we assume that the quiet of this campaign is attributable to thoughtfulness among our people and a deliberate sense of patriotic duty in the exercise of their suffrages, there should seem to be no place for fear or misgiving as to the result on the part of those who support democratic principles. In exactly the form they are involved in the present campaign these principles were presented two years ago to the voters of the country and received their indorsement by a tremendous majority; since then the drift of public opinion has been in our direction, and the doctrines opposed to ours have been more than ever discredited. It must be conceded, too, that the intelligent and disinterested men who have left the ranks of our opponents and joined our standard, are exceptionally numerous and influential. The fact that with all these in our favor, we are still not absolutely sure of success would be startling if we did not know the desperate and disreputable methods which confront us. Our opponents, vanquished in every argument worthy of presentation to the reason of our countrymen, have appealed to their passions and prejudices through the distribution of the most impudent lies concerning the record and action of our party and its candidates. This, however, is not their main reliance nor is it our greatest danger. It is a confession most humiliating to American citizenship, that with a cause so thoroughly entrenched in reason, and commending itself so clearly to the intelligence of patriotic Americans, we daily hear predictions of success, based upon the ability of that party to purchase the votes of the people.

"A little reflection, it seems to me, cannot fail to arouse the American conscience to the wickedness as well as the peril of a debauched suffrage. It is a plain proposition that our government is only true to the principles upon which it rests, when in its operation it represents the honest and intelligent sentiments of the people. When it does not, its vigor and its very life are gone, and it remains but the mere semblance of a free government—the weakest and most deformed plan of rule that ever deluded mankind. It can then no longer defend the rights of all, because rights will be forgotten in the capricious bestowal of favors. It will then no longer be the proud manifestation of the strength and virtue of a free people, because it will only be the miserable instrument of craft and selfishness.

"Who of all who believe our government was created to bless American people and benefit mankind will deny that the corruption of our suffrage paves the way to these conditions. The time has surely come when those who see the beginning of this corruption should look beyond it and beneath it in an endeavor to discover the source of our danger and the forces which will give it deadly strength. It has its source in the perversion of limited and ment to the furtherance of limited and special interests, and the invitation thus extended to anticipate a continuance of governmental favor in a compensation for partisan support. The forces behind it are agreed and selfishness, willing to prostitute the suffrage of the people for pecuniary gain.

"In the light of these considerations there is nothing unnatural in the situation of the pending canvass. When our countrymen yield to temptation and turn their backs upon the broad and disinterested patriotism that should characterize their citizenship, and when they reach the point where they are willing to subordinate political duty to business gain, it is a short step to active participation in schemes of corrupton having for their object the retention of power of the party by which unearned business profits are promised. The movement begins with the corruption, by means of these promises, of the beneficiaries themselves. They are thereafter willing instruments for the corruption of others, instigated to activity by an obligation to aid the party which has favored them, and stimulated by the expectation of further and special benefits. This deal between a political party and private enterprise by which governmental aid is promised in exchange for partisan support, is covered by the pretext of a care for the business interests of the country. While we readily concede the importance of these interests, and while we hold that no political party should be unmindful of them, or heedless of their prosperity, we insist that no plea for their promotion shall be used to justify political methods which endanger the integrity and beneficence of our institutions.

"Since, therefore, the fair name of our business interests has thus been used in a disreputable service, I have deemed it appropriate to call attention to these things in an assemblage gathered together under the auspices of a business men's club. It seems to be peculiarly fit and proper that the patriotic business men of our country should repudiate the suggestion that care for the interests they have in their keeping can be an excuse for corrupt political practices; they can teach with especial authority the lesson that business interests are safest under a fair administration of an honest and just government representing the unbought suffrage of our people. Beyond this, however, our business men and all other Americans who love their country, ought to make common cause in an effort to turn back the tide which leaves to a perversion of the functions of our government, invites the corruption of our voters, and menaces the sure foundations of a political virtue.

"In a sincere and disinterested advocacy of sensible tariff reform, we labor to remove the temptations that beset the integrity of our people, and strive to preserve that justice and equality which our government was created to guarantee to all our countrymen.

"Let us at all times bear in mind that it is the people's cause we have in hand; and while warning them of danger, let us never lose faith in the irresistible power of their awakened intelligence and patriotism.

Congressman Breckenridge Talks.

"As soon as the applause that followed would permit, Congressman W. C. P. Breckenrige, of Kentucky, was introduced. He said if there was no money used during this campaign and no other political organization than the old-fashioned party organizations as they were during the time of our fathers, the election of Cleveland and Stevenson would be conceded by every one by a majority so large, both in the electoral and popular vote, as to demonstrate that the country has come to the conclusion that the days of usefulness of the republican party were over. It is almost impossible, he continued, to lay imposts without hurting or helping certain industries. It is also, in the very nature of the case, true that when it is once admitted that one purpose of protection is to create opportunities by legislation that there can b eno stopping place. The laws of commerce are extra territorial and cannot be controlled by interritorial legislation. It is impossible for a nation any more than for a man to live unto itself. There can be no final settlement of the tariff question on the basis of a high rate of duty. The law of 1883, which was passed by the forty-seventh congress, in which the republican party controlled both houses, was proclaimed to be a scientific and practical settlement of this much debated matter. But every one interested knew this to be a ridiculous claim. The business interests of the country required place, but there could be no place under suc a bill. Adulteration of the goods manufactured with the law necessarily results from a reduction of the tariff. If the democratic party was put in power there would necessarily follow the purity of the ballot-box and of the administration of public affairs, an incorruptible congress, a sound and American administration, development of the industries of the country according to the laws of natural development, and the restoration to the people of the right to change their government without injury or intimidation at the ballot-box. Continuing Mr. Breckenridge said that Mr. Cleveland had the heart of Andrew Jackson and the head of Thomas Jefferson. One of the things that made him look forward to the triumph next Tuesday was that it would leave no sorrow in its train."

Mr. Cleveland remained on the platform until the close of the meeting. The doors of the hall had been left open and the building by this time was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mr. Cleveland had great difficulty in getting away. Every one on the platform wanted to shake his hand at once, and a large number of those in the hall jumped to the platform and tried to get to the ex-president. Chairs were upset and people were almost trampled. Mr. Cleveland was virtually held a prisoner by his enthusiastic admirers for some minutes, but at last by the aid of half a dozen policemen he escaped to the cab which was awaiting him at the entrance.

THE LOST ROUMANIA.

Particulars of the Awful Disaster.

The Wreck Was Caused by Carelessness.

The Shore Strewn With Wreckage for Three Miles — Bodies Washing Ashore.

London, Nov. 2.—The Lisbon correspondent of the Times has succeeded in obtaining interviews with Lieutenant Rooke and Capt. Hamilton. Both these officers, says the correspondent, complained bitterly of the state of repair of the Roumania. They also complained of the failure of the ship's officers to inform them that vessel had stranded and of the omission of the crew to aid them in lowering the boats when they knew the steamer was lost. The Roumania, according to Lieut. Rooke and Capt. Hamilton, was steaming at the rate of five knots an hour when she stranded. She struck in sand 60 yards from the shore. The shock was so slight that the passengers had not the slightest idea of what had happened, nor were they ever informed that a disaster had occurred. At 1 o'clock in the morning the ship broke suddenly. An hour and a half later a great noise in the ship's hold from the shifting of iron bars, together with the noise of the surf and of a heavy squall, aroused Lieut. Rooke, who says he left his cabin to inquire, on deck, what the trouble was, and was about to assist in lowering a boat when the vessel collapsed. He was washed ashore with a mass of the wreckage.

Capt. Hamilton says that he was aiding his wife to pass through a skylight when he was washed away. He was unconscious till he found himself on the shore, and he supposes that he had been stunned. Lieut. Rooke says that he moved about naked on the sands till daybreay whei he saw seven Lascars in a cluster, all badly injured and near by another injured Lascar who soon died. He sent one Lascar northward while he himself went in search of a house. About 1 o'clock in the afternoon he met a fiscal guard who returned with him to the scene of the wreck. The lieutenant was afterwards left alone in a niche in the cliff while the guard went to Obidas to inform his superiors. The guard did not return till the following day. In the meantime Lieut. Rooke, who had been strolling about entirely naked, met Capt. Hamilton, who was in the greatest grief. Lieutenant Rooke soon left him, going in another direction. Capt. Hamilton soon met somebody from Peniche who took him to a hospital.

A cart drawn by oxen appeared at the scene of the wreck on Saturday and conveyed Lieut. Rooke and the injured Lascars to Peniche, after two days and nights spent in the open air, during which time bands of savages pillaged the steamer's cargo, and carried tons of it up the hills.

The forgoing particulars were obtained in a conversation that took place between the correspondent and Lieutenant Rooke during a journey to the scene of the wreck with a number of government officials. Lieutenant Hamilton tried to accompany the party, but fainted and was left behind. The correspondent continues: "As we traversed the sands of Barrucho the administrator of the district seized several men with sacks of stolen property. We arrived at the wreck after a ride of four hours. The boat's stern and other portions of the wreck were separated by a distance of one hundred yards. The wreck is only sixty yards from the shore. Lieutenant Rooke remarked that any plucky man might have swum ashore with a rope and saved all on board. He believes that the vessel was stranded through the culpable neglect of two officers who were on duty, charged to keep a good lookout; but they sought protection from the rain, shutting themselves inside the box on the bridge. He says he did not see the captain on deck when the steamer stranded.

"It is generally admitted that the Roumania was from one to two miles out of her course and after passing Cape Fozlalagan she must have been steered straight inland, then parallel with the coast in the direction of Cape Carvoiro light house until she stranded, five miles from the former and seven from the latter. The cape was inside a bay and had she continued further she could scarcely have missed running on the rocks around Carvoiro. From the scene of the wreck for a distance of three miles northward the beach is covered with thousands of bales of cotton and wooden goods, barrels of beer, cases of pistols, sewing machines, etc. Hundreds of tons have already been pillaged. Twenty fiscal guards and troops for ten miles of coast are quite insufficient to prevent pillaging.

"Lieutenant Rooke minutely examined each dead body without displaying the slightest emotion and identified two. When we returned to Peniche at 7 o'clock at night he was so exhausted that he had to be carried to bed.

"Most of the plunderers live in the village of Ferrel. The inhabitants of Peniche are indignant at the savage plunder and the government has been asked to encircle Ferel with troops and compel the restoration of the stolen property. Unless the wreckage is quickly removed it will soon be hidden in the sand.

"It is announced to-night that sixteen more bodies have washed ashore some distance north of the wreck.

A CORNER IN SHORT RIBS.

A. M. Wright and John Cudahy Control 70,000,000 pounds.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The corner in October short ribs was successfully carried through by A. M. Wright and John Cudahy. Ed Pardridge is said to have been "squeezed" in the deal. The price was $12.

The clique is said to control 70,000,000 pounds, accumulated steadily as the market continued to rise. Many of the shorts settled with them as the price advanced, not daring to wait until the last moment.

That the clique will be able to hold on to this accumulation is not doubted by those who know the resources of the Cudahy.

This was the last day the "shorts" had in which to deliver the ribs contracted for by the clique. Hereafter the latter are not bound to accept the product, and have the option of making the seller pay the difference between the present high price and the price which prevailed at the time the deal was made.

THE BISHOP OF EXETER.

The Bishop, it seems, was constantly annoyed by the intrusion of strangers into his grounds, and he had put up very stringent notices forbidding trespassers. One morning he was walking along in a meditative mood when suddenly two ladies broke through the shrubs and stood awkwardly enough confronting him. They stammered out some excuse, saying they did not know they were in private grounds. His lordship made them a profound bow, pointed to the printed notice, adding: "Just perhaps you do not read; however, as you seem to have no scruples, pray go on, go along the paths, into the flower garden, enter the house, visit the drawin room, dining room and study, but let me recommend you not to penterate into the bedrooms at this early hour, as the housemaids may not have done their work." The intruders must have wished themselves in another diocese.—Temple Bar.

Deaf for a Year
Caused by
Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend to all who have catarrh." HERMAN HICKS, 30 Carter Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Corruption Fund on a Gigantic Scale.

Dudley and His Blocks of Five To Be Out Done in the Hoosier State.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 2.—An Indiana corruption fund of $100,000 has been raised through George M. Pullman's efforts and example. It shows that the Dudley "blocks of five" game is to be played over again in the Hoosier state. It shows, too, according to many political wiseacres that the sleeping-car magnate is determined to have a position in Harrison's next cabinet or an important diplomatic appointment.

Mr. Pullman is one of the secret auxiliary committee appointed by the republican national committee at the outset of the campaign to raise funds. He has already sent his check for $25,000 to Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss, and his recent effort is said to be a purely personal and voluntary display of its affectionate regard for Benjamin Harrison.

Four years ago Mr. Pullman was ostentatiously but not extravagantly liberal in his campaign contributions. Then, as now, he insisted that the "boodle" should be placed directly in Indiana, that Mr. Harrison might be spared the humiliation of a defeat in his own state. But Pious John Wanamaker so outdid him in raising money to buy votes in 1888 that the cash value of a cabinet position, according to republican appraisal, was raised high above Mr. Pullman's hopes.

Harrison's law partner, Miller, and Lewis T. Michener came from Indianapolis to Chicago after the "boodle" in 1888. Chicago's contribution was $85,000. This year Mr. Pullman said he would give $10,000 if nine others would do likewise, and the corruption fund was raised in a day. Charles W. Fairbanks and R. B. F. Pierce took $100,000 home with them on Saturday night.

There is no pretense that this money is wanted for any other use than the purchase of votes. A novelty, which Mr. Harrison's friends think very safe and very clever, may be introduced in the way of bribing registered voters who are opposed to Harrison to remain away from the polls. This brilliant idea is said to have been well received by Mr. Pullman when ex-Congressman Pierce laid it before him as a sample of the cleverness of the Hoosier boodle-handlers.

Dudley in 1888 had nearly $500,000. Chicago's $100,000 fund is merely a slice of the golden cake that is to be divided in Mr. Harrison's state next week Monday and Tuesday. The rest of the dough is expected to come from New York and Pennsylvania.

Messrs. Fairbanks and Pierce came by different railroad routes and met about noon in the sleeping-car magnate's office. They were closeted with Mr. Pullman an hour and a half and then hastened to the federal building. Collector John M. Clark was ready to receive them. It was he who received the remaining nine contributors to the big fund, and it took but a couple of hours to go around and gather up the checks. Fairbanks carried the "boodle" in his inside coat pocket. It was all in checks, unlike the "crisp new bills" that Pennsylvania furnishes, according to republican boasts.

Mr. Pullman stands ready to give still more money if it is absolutely needed, so determined is he that no eastern man shall out-do him in efforts to buy Harrison's election. His contributions of $35,000 during the campaign do not represent all he has done for the president. He gave pronounced aid at Minneapolis, where the southern delegate was lonesome and far from home and friends, and often without a return ticket. Michener, Rody Shiel, Sam Kircheval, Pierce and Fairbanks secured his promise then that he would do even better for Harrison and Harrison's state than he did in 1888. The owner of Pullman town, who likes to be called Sir George, is keeping his promise, with his eye open to the reward in the distance.

It is said that Mr. Pullman and the nine others imposed no conditions as to how and where the "boodle" should be placed, save and only that it should pass through as few hands as possible and reach the "floater" at just the right time. Rody Shiel and Kircheval are acceptable as "boodle" handlers. The selection of Charles W. Fairbanks as collector was thought to be well chosen, because his eggs are in the same basket with Gen. Harrison's. He expects to be United States senator in the very remote contingency of a republican legislature.

Four years ago this same Mr. Fairbanks was at the head of the Gresham movement. He fought Gen. Harrison at the national convention of 1888 with extreme bitterness. He has flopped over into the Harrison camp now body and breeches.

He is a wealthy railroad lawyer and represents what is known as the Austin Corbin syndicate. He conducted the recent fight on the legislative apportionment of Indiana, and it was only the other day that a prominent republican denounced him in unmeasured terms for his outrageous breach of the proprieties in attempting to bulldoze certain judges of the supreme court. He had something to do also, it is said, with the decision that the registration provision of the Indiana law is unconstitutional, and thereby performed what he regards as a service for which he is entitled to the thanks of the republicans of the state. It enables the republicans to take those former residents of Indiana who vote in Chicago in the morning over into Indiana in the afternoon to vote there.

Mr. Fairbank's companion, R. F. B. Pierce, was involved with Dudley in the blocks-of-five scandal in 1888. He is the trustee of the Indiana, Decatur & Western railroad and was attorney in the case in which Judge Gresham scored Judge Woods. He is regarded as a very shrewd manipulator, who doesn't mind taking a chance in politics. The voters of his congressional district—the Eighth—turned him down for John Lamb. The republican managers here are not at all happy over the large lump of "boodle" carried out of the state to enrich Indiana handlers and "floaters." They recall the campaign of 1888, when the national committee bled all the sure states to the utmost limit for the benefit of the doubtful ones. It was just about this time four years ago that the wealthy Illinois republicans were called upon to contribute towards a fund to buy votes in Indiana. Michener and Miller, the two men closest to Gen. Harrison, were sent here to fan the fire under the frying-pan, and $85,000 was raised in Chicago. Mr. Pullman, Philip D. Armour, Norman B. Ream and S. W. Allerton were among the contributors. There were several contributions of $5,000 each. Russell Harrison was here at that time, too.

When all the money possible had been secured from Chicago republicans for use in Indiana the friends of Fifer began to grow uneasy at the lack of funds wherewith to boost up the grand old party in Illinois, and urgent word was sent to the national committee. A representative of that committee came here post-haste only a few days before election, and the result of his investigation and report was that $50,000 of the national fund was shipped into this state to help Fifer out. It came just in time.

Now the central committee is debating whether to call attention to the big Indiana fund or not. A great many small-fry politicians are openly denouncing the policy that removes so much money from their reach. They are shouting the needs of Illinois, and their motto seems to be that corruption, like charity, should begin at home.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Goldwin Smith spoke at an annexationist meeting in Ontario the other day, declaring that the whole country was either at a standstill or declining in prosperity.

HER MIND GAVE WAY.

Strange Case Reported at Defiance.

Mrs. Mary C. Wahl Stirs Up the Natives in a Neighboring Town.

Defiance, O., Nov. 2.—(Special)—Mary C. Wahl, a married woman, 50 years old furnished a sensation last night by parading the streets dressed in men's clothes. She is the wife of Wm. H .Wahl, a factory hand, and has a child 9 years old. Her maiden name was Bodicker, and she came from the west end of the county, near Hicksville. She has a brother near this place, and Sunday she went to visit him. Her conduct was very strange. She wanted to go to Hicksville, but would not allow her brother to take her there. She walked to that little town and remained until Monday. Then she went to the depot where her actions and talk caused her arrest by the marshal. She was placed in the city prison and a good fire built for her comfort. In the morning the officers visited the place and found that in the night she had burned every stitch of her clothing in the stove. Another wardrobe was secured for her and she was sent to Defiance yesterday. In the meantime her husband had learned of her conduct and had charged her in court this morning with insanity.

Accordingly Deputy Sheriff Eiser went to her home last night to take her to jail, pending an investigation.

She at first did not want to go, but in a short time she got the idea that the officer wished her to attend a fancy ball at the new Citizens' opera house. She locked herself in a bed room and put on a suit of her husband's clothes.

The deputy favored her hallucination and took her to the county jail which she thinks is the opera house. She is undoubtedly crazy.

In the eighties she was the wife of a man named Mitchell, and in 1885 was sent to the asylum at Columbus for a year on the charge of insanity.

The increase over October of last year is $4,497.55.

A Horse Thief Captured.

Detectives Carew and Hall captured Ed Jones, alias Burt Jones, yesterday. He is a man who has eluded the officers for a long time. He was in the habit of stealing grain up in Michigan and bringing it here to sell. Then, while in Toledo, he would steal horses and dispose of them on his return trip to Michigan. He is wanted for stealing a carriage from Mr. Conrad, of East Toledo; a harness belonging to a Mr. Todd, of Ida, Mich.; a wagon from Jerry Ansel, of LaSalle, Mich.; a buggy of Mr. Yager, of Dorr street, and a horse of John Sullies, Bedford township, and this is not the half. He will be taken to Michigan and dealt with there.

Death of Mrs. Brand Whitlock.

The Chicago Herald of yesterday has the following relative to the death of Mrs. Brand Whitlock, mention of which was made in last evening's Bee:

Susie Brainard Whitlock, wife of Brand Whitlock, of the Herald staff, died at 9 o'clock last night at her home, 3852 Vincennes avenue, where she had been lying in pain for nearly two months. Mrs. Whitlock was in her 19th year. She was married only last June at her father's home in Springfield. She had hardly settled in her new home before she was stricken. Mrs. Whitlock was the daughter of Gideon R. Brainard, of Springfield, and was a kinsman of Senator Palmer. Hundreds of people in Springfield who knew her and her family will hear with great sorrow of her sad death. The burial will be in Springfield.

Journeymen Stonecutters.

The members of Toledo Branch, Journeymen Stonecutters' Association of North America, are coming out as a social organization Wednesday evening, November 16, when they will give their first ball at Pythian Castle. The officers are C. Mitchell, president; W. R. Simpson, vice-president; W. Jones, corresponding secretary; C. Frutiger, recording secretary; V. Metzger, treasurer; D. McCarthy, tyler.

Committees to take charge of the affair have been appointed as follows:

Arrangements—A. J. Loeb, chairman; J. F. O'Connor, W. R. Simpson, W. F. Murphy, J. P. Keefe, C. Mitchell and R. J. Simpson.

Reception Committee—J. Keenan, chairman; M. Mauch, Jos. Davy, M. Stader and R. Geake.

Floor Committee—R. J. Simpson, chairman; W. H. Milerain, J. Graham, L. C. Bennett, Jos. Smith, T. Pahnd, and C. Frutiger.

Mark E. Sibley Camp—Entertainment.

At the last meeting of Mark E. Sibley camp held, a new set of by-laws for the government of the camp were adopted after considerable debate. One of the important changes made was the increasing of the initiation fee to $5, the same to take effect January 1, 1893. It is altogether probable that the camp will enjoy a healthy boom between now and that date. At the next division encampment to be held at Woodsdale island an A 1 insurance and benefit system will be attached to the order. This will to a great extent assist in strengthening and building up the order.

The Ladies' Aid society of the camp gave an entertainment last evening, consisting of songs, recitations, music, etc., concluding with a pleasing little comedy, presented by a company of members of the society. The society is under obligations to several of the business firms of the city for their kind assistance in making the entertainment a success.

BYRON RITCHIE

At Bowling Green—Good Meeting and Good Speech.

Bowling Green, Oct. 2.—(Special)—The democratic rally here last night was the greatest kind of a success, and enthused the democrats to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

There was a large attendance, and Mr. Ritchie's speech in the general issues of the campaign was vigorously applauded.

Mr. Frank Baldwin presided, and in a rattling speech introduced Mr. B F. Ritchie.

Hon. L. C. Cole also spoke. The bad weather affected the attendance somewhat, but as it was the hall was crowded.

LIEUTENANT SCHWATKA

He Dies in the Streets of Portland.

Laudanum Bottle Found by His Side.

A Brilliant Character Blotted Out Forever and the Cause Was Whisky.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 2.—About 3 o'clock this morning Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, the famous Arctic explorer, was picked up on First street in an unconscious condition.

Beside him lay a bottle of laudanum.

A patrol wagon was called and the lieutenant was removed to the police station where he soon died.

It was undoubtedly a case of suicide.

THE MARKETS TO-DAY.

The wheat and corn markets opened weak in unison this morning and declined. On the basis of the December future at Chicago wheat declined 7-8c and corn 3-8c, from which there was a moderate reaction.

New York has been lower on December wheat and corn all day, and east and west the markets have been dull. We do not wonder. It is getting to be an old chestnut, but how can the wheat markets of the world advance under the continued movement on this side the Atlantic? We give it up.

Foreign markets offer no encouragement in closing prices.

In New York November wheat closed at 73 3-4c, a loss of 3-8c; December at 75 3-8, unchanged; May at 82 5-8c, a loss of 1-4c. November corn at 49 3-4c, a loss of 1-4c; December at 51 1-2c, a loss of 1-8c; May at 51 3-4c, a gain of 3-8c. November oats at 36 1-8c, a gain of 5-8c.

In Chicago November wheat closed at 70 1-4c and December at 71 5-8c, a loss on each of 3-8c; May at 77 5-8, a gain of 1-8c. November corn closed at 41 1-2c, a loss of 1-8c; December at at 41 5-8c and May at 45 3-4c, a gain of 1-8c. November oats at 30 1-8c, a gain of 3-8c.

In Toledo the wheat market has shown a little more activity in the speculative dealings, but our prices are decidedly lower. On the call December sold at at 72 to 72l 3-4c, and May at 77 3-4c. On the regular board December sold at 71 3-4 to 71 3-8c and advanced and closed at 71 5-8c. May sold at 77 7-8 to 77 3-8c and closed at 77 5-8c, a loss on each of 7Sc.

Cash wheat was dull and 3-4c lower. Sales light. No. 2 soft sold at 70 1-4c, No. 3 soft at 62c, closing with sellers. Rejected No. 1 at 58c. Mixed No. 2 at 63 3-4c, No. 3 at 60 1-4c. Hard No. 2 at 66 1-4c, No. 3 at 61 1-2c. No. 2 white at 68 to 67 3-4c.

Corn—We have our first receipts of new corn and grading No. 4. It sold at 36c. No. 3 at 40c.

Oats—No. 3 white at 33c. Rye—No. 3 at 48 1-c.

Clover seed continues to advance, and to-day is 12 1-2@20c higher, with active trading. The highest prices of the day were made after 'change. Prime medium for cash sold at $6.85, and was held higher; November at $6.80, and held higher; December at $6.85@6.95; January at $6.90@7.10, and after 'change at $7.17 1-2@7.20; March at $7.12 1-2; No. 2 at $6.60@6.70; Alsove at $7.25.

THE COTTAGE OF BURNS.

It Will Be Reproduced at the World's Fair.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—"Bobby" Burns' cottage at Ayr is to be reproduced at the world's fair. The Scottish Home Industries association has applied for the concession, which will undoubtedly be granted. The trinkets, the manufacture of which it is the province of the association to encourage, will be for sale in the cottage.

The plans for the liberal arts building, an addition to the fair decided upon within the last fortnight, are complete. The ground plan is similar to that of the Grand Opera House in Paris, a trapezoid. The exhibit space aggregates 160,000 square feet and can be increased to 200,000 by a gallery.

The seven days beginning Monday, July 4, were to-day announced as commercial travelers' week. A monster reception and banquet and a parade with 100,000 men in line are talked of as features of the week.

Opening attration Y. M. C. A. Star Course. The Famous Ovid Musin supported by a company of superior artists, at Wheeler Opera House, Monday evening, Nov. 7. Tickets now on sale at Freeman's.

TELEGRAPHERS WANT MORE MONEY.

Columbus, Nov. 2.—The telegraph operators of the Big Four railroad have sent a delegation to Indianapolis to ask for an increase in pay over the entire system and its leased lines. There are 650 operators on the system, and nearly every man belongs to the Order of Railway Telegraphers. The new schedule that has been prepared by the operators contemplates an average increase of $10 per month, which is equivalent to $55,000 a year to the road. The operators also ask recognition as an order.

MORE FOOD ADULTERATION.

Columbus, O., Nov. 2.—Dr. McNeal, state dairy and food commissioner, has received documentary evidence showing that New York wholesale houses are sending pepper hulls over the country for pepper and it is low. The hulls are offered resellers at three and one-eighth cents per pound. He has also received samples of oat and rice hulls, to be used in adulterating spices, which, it is said, Hosea & Co., of Cincinnati, are sending to their customers.

THE BLADE ON ASHLEY.

"Corrupt and shameless conduct in employing his official position to secure the appointment of a man to an important territorial office for the avowed and exclusive purpose of feathering his own nest with ill-gotten and illegal gains."—Blade, Sept. 18, 1862.

The black list and the boycott have got to go. Vote for Byron Ritchie.

If the protection bosses succeed this fall, union labor will be driven from the land.

By the way, where is the people's party at in Lucas county and the great state of Ohio?

Blaine will not go to Maine from Washington to vote for his friend Harrison. This is official.

"Lincoln's Friend" has not many friends among those in this section who responded to Lincoln's call in 1862.

Indiana has its gait on this week. Politics is the only thing discussed, except, possibly, the Kokomo natural gas war.

Political perfidy should be considered as much of a crime as horse stealing, and morally it is. Rebuke it by electing Byron Ritchie.

Moxie is fighting for his political life in the Second ward. It is safe to be against anything which Moxie favors. Vote for Wylie.

Mr. Ashley will make speeches in Ottawa county the rest of the week. As Capt. Jim Luckey remarked, this will make votes for Ritchie.

Does any sane man believe that Ashley will labor for the Toledo harbor when he has that harbor at Frankfort to construct? Not much.

Take another look at Ashley's great labors in the interest of the Toledo harbor, particulars of which can be found at the head of this column.

Really, street railroad managers, the open car has become somewhat of a nuisance in Toledo and could safely be tied up for summer use.

Mr. Byron Ritchie represents the plain people in this canvass. A citizen is not required to bow obeisance when approaching him. Vote for Ritchie.

There is consternation in local republican ranks, and the pencil will be used liberally. Democrats need only to present a solid front, and all will be well.

Second ward republicans, that is, the decent element, would be doing their party and the city a service in dumping Moxie and his gang of heelers.

Van Loon, the Ottawa county convicted murderer, was due in eternity this morning, but the supreme court intervened, delaying his departure for a time.

A celebration over the opening of the new armory building would be exceedingly appropriate, and it is not too early to commence making the arrangements.

There is much in Matt Quay's ominous shake of his head after examination of New York's registration. Probably Pennsylvania's senator does not feel as badly as he looks.

Those who claim to know state this part of the country is in need of a week's rain. This may be true, but a week's rain is not the most delightful thing to contemplate.

The continued efforts of the protected bosses to grind down union labor will be resented at the polls this fall. It is to the interest of the working man to give these blood-sucking labor grinders a black eye.

It is inconceivable how practical business men, who would not trust a dishonest servant in their personal employ, will work and vote to place dishonest men in positions of the greatest trust politically.

Jim Ashley is already assuming all the airs and style of a boss. He is simply in training now; wait and see him in the ring if his father should happen to be elected—a thing, by the way, not at all probable.

J. H. Wylie is a popular young business man of the Second ward, and was nominated for the council because of his well known integrity and conceded ability. He should be elected in the interest of good government.

Ashley's failure to secure appropriations for Toledo harbor has been explained. The war was in progress during his many terms, and he was voting for financial measures to help out the country. A poor excuse is better than none.

L. C. Gibbs, who is on the democratic ticket for commissioner, needs no indorsements or recommendations. He has served his constituents faithfully and well in the past, and his satisfactory work is the best guarantee for the future.

Senator Palmer, Hon. W. R. Morrison, Congressman Springer and hundreds of other strong men are making speeches for the democratic cause in all parts of Illinois, which is ablaze with enthusiasm. Governor Fifer will suffer defeat with the electoral ticket.

Democrats should make a liberal response to the call for aid from the local campaign committee. The managers have no federal officeholders to assess, and the funds obtained must come as a free-will offering from those who believe in the people's cause.

A Toledo merchant makes a pertinent query in another column as to the purchases made at Chicago for the insane asylum. The matter is respectfully referred to Dr. Tobey, the superintendent, for the information desired. The Bee is not in possession of the facts.

Congressman Harter has E. G. Johnson beaten in the Fourteenth district. Johnson has arrived at that point where his speeches are made up of "liar," "thief," etc. The Shermanites propose to give him a little of the medicine he doled out to them during the senatorial canvass.

Republican editors are finding satisfaction in writing paragraphs that the democratic nominee for governor of Texas is liable to be defeated by the populist nominee. Let's see, what majority did Georgia turn up? Texas is good for about 150,000 this time.

President Harrison's political friends in Colorado and other western states are making public promises that he will sign a free silver bill if sent to the white house by congress. Even this palpable bribery cannot again bring together the republican party's scattered forces in the west.

City Solicitor Read is to be commended for pressing the Bower case to a speedy termination, and he should have the cordial support of all citizens. If Mr. Bower is guilty, punishment cannot be meted out too soon; on the other hand, if innocent, the stain on his character should be removed.

Out of whose labor does Carnegie, Frick, Jones and the rest of the Pennsylvania iron lords procure the thousands of dollars contributed to the republican campaign corruption fund? Surely not their own. And yet laboring men will howl themselves hoarse crying for so-called protection, and vote as these monopolists dictate.

Judge Scribner has preserved his honor in this campaign. Unlike his opponent, Wickham, he has attended to his duties on the bench, leaving the people free to decide. Wickham has made a personal canvass of every county in the district, overwhelming defeat. Vote for Charles which is sufficient ground in itself for an H. Scribner for circuit judge.

Mr. Joseph Gates would prove an efficient infirmary director. He has every qualification for the position. Having long acquaintance with the county and its residents, it would be a difficult matter to impose on him. The office is one of the most important to be filled, and it is a good time to elect a democrat, since the party is not represented on the board.

Gov. McKinley says that the manufacturers of pearl buttons are now employing 8,000 men at an average compensation of $21.50 per week, and were turning out an annual product of the value of $3,500,000. These figures show that these charitable gentlemen are paying every year to their laborers $5,445,000 more than the total value of their product.

Jake Kohn, the democratic nominee for recorder, was born and raised in Toledo, was educated in the public schools, and is an active business man. The merchant would make choice of Mr. Kohn in preference to his opponent if an employe was to be selected. Why should not this principle prevail when choosing a public officer? Vote for Kohn for recorder.

Notwithstanding the infamous gerrymander of the present Ohio legislature, by which the democratic party was magnanimously given five congressional seats, the prospect is exceedingly bright that thirteen or fourteen of the nominees will be elected. The average voter does not take kindly to political theft, and usually condemns it as soon as an opportunity is afforded.

The republican money machine is to be put in good working order for election day. Two million dollars will be turned into New York and one hundred thousand into Indiana. The attempt to bribe will fail. The time is past when a president can buy his way into the white house. The people have suffered too long from burdensome taxation to be a party to its perpetuation.

In him (Ashley) we have a candidate whose unblemished, personal and official record stands out in bold relief before the world.—Commercial.

The unblushing effrontery of the statement, in face of proven facts, coming from a source generally so truthful and just as the Commercial, shows to what desperate straits the Ashley management will resort.

Not a charge has been preferred against Mr. Ashley, and they have been many and serious, that have not been reiterated by Ashley's chief political organ and bugle-blowers.

He has been accused by the self-styled leading republican papers of Northwestern Ohio of "corrupt and shameless conduct" while in office.

He is charged by the same papers "of feathering his own nest (while in congress) with ill-gotten and illegal gains."

Certainly no democratic paper has accused him of anything worse.

There is the best republican authority for the statements that—

Ashley is an unscrupulous politician, with whom the end justifies the means.

That self-interest alone is his guiding star in all things.

That he is in brief a tricky politician, who is in politics for what is in it.

Under these circumstances, will any fair-minded man say he should be elected?

A great quantity of dirty linen will probably be washed at the meeting of the police commissioners this evening. The public will be made acquainted with the result of the "sweeping reforms" inaugurated by the majority of the board. Protests were made when the slaughter took place, but they had no effect. Now, it is permissible for the "I told you so" people to appear at the front. The troubles did not come much sooner than expected.

LEND A HAND, DEMOCRATS.

If the democrats in this city are really in earnest in their fight against blacklisting, boodle and bossism, there is but one thing for them to do. That is to respond at once to the manly appeal of the democratic executive committee, published in the Bee. All cannot devote their services to the cause and the party on Tuesday next, but all can afford to contribute two dollars. There is not a democrat in Toledo who would not willingly give a week's income to see that political pirate and apostate, Ashley, defeated.

The Bee can state that Byron F. Ritchie has excellent prospects of being the congressman from the Ninth district. It behooves the democrats of Lucas county, however, to assist in getting out the vote in this county. To do this it is necessary to have men or money, or both.

If the full democratic vote in Lucas county is gotten out Ashley will be defeated.

Help to get it out by sending your name as a volunteer worker or two dollars to employ some one in your place to Mr. Jacob Mandler, 430 Superior street.

DEMOCRATS, ATTENTION.

To the Democrats of Toledo and Lucas County:

The heavy registration points to a decisive democratic victory in this county and district next Tuesday.

It is, however, an imperative necessity that the democratic executive committee be placed in position to reap the harvest now ripe.

We must get out the vote on election day, and to do this, it will be necessary that every democrat take a personal interest in the battle of the ballots next Tuesday.

We have no Carnegies, or Ashley's barrel, nor wealthy protected barons to aid us financially and we must depend solely and wholly on the zeal and ardor of the people.

We cannot expect many to devote their services to the cause next Tuesday, but there is something that all can do.

There is no democrat in Toledo who cannot donate $2 to the cause.

We desire two things: First—Volunteers to help get out the vote in every precinct on Tuesday next. Second—Those who cannot give us their personal services can give $2 so that we can employ men in their places.

We need financial help and if we would win, must have it promptly.

Send your name for your $2, therefore, to the treasurer, Mr. Jacob Mandler, 430 Superior street, or to M. M. Eppstein, vice chairman of the democratic executive committee, at democratic headquarters, Summit street.

DEATH OF ERNEST GATES

A Short Sketch of His Railroad Career.

Only Fifteen Years of Age When He Became an Active Railroad Worker

The many friends of Ernest Gates were pained, although not surprised this morning to learn that he had passed away during the night. For three years he had been an invalid, bravely struggling with a disease, consumption, from which he or his friends had but little hope of his recovery.

Ernest Gates was the son of Wm. Gates, of the Union ticket office. He was born at Gates' Mills, Ohio, August 7, 1861. With his parents he came to Toledo in '63, and at the age of 15 entered the office of the Canadian Pacific railroad at Alexis as night operator. After two years in that position, by diligent and faithful work, he was promoted to the position of operator in Superintendent M. D. Woodford's office. He was shortly afterwards made train dispatcher of the Canada Southern, and remained in that office until the Michigan Central took control of the road, when he went to Jackson, Mich., as train dispatcher of the Fort Wayne & Jackson road.

Three years afterwards when M. D. Woodford was made general manager of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, his first appointment was to make Mr. Gates general car accountant of the Wheeling.

Three years ago Mr. Gates had a severe attack of the grip, from the effects of which he never recovered. It developed into consumption finally. He tried everything for relief, living in California, South Carolina and Mexico, but all without avail.

Death relieved him of his sufferings at 2:30 o'clock this morning. He leaves a wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gates, and one brother, Chas. Gates.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon from Gates' flats.

In the death of Ernest Gates, Toledo loses one of its best railroad men. He was a man who made many friends and kept them. His untimely death is generally mourned, and the bereaved family has the sympathy of all who know them.

TOLEDO AND TOLEDOANS.

Toledo Talent Abroad.

Tiffin merchants claim to have been swindled out of $10 each by a bogus collection agency of Toledo, run by Stratton & Smith. They were overhauled at Defiance and taken to Tiffin, where they will be prosecuted for getting money under false pretenses.—Upper Sandusky Union.

You Biting Thing.

With a voting population of at least 25,000, we can laugh to scorn the census taker who says Columbus has a population of less than 100,000. And if our laughing to scorn does no good we can scorn to laugh—at Toledo, for instance.—Columbus Despatch.

A Faithful Servant.

Rev. Wm. Sheridan, of Toledo, very acceptably filled the Baptist pulpit here on Sunday by way of exchange with the pastor, Rev. J. B. Schaff. Mr. Sheridan enjoys the distinction of holding one of the oldest continuous pastorates in the state, having organized the mission which developed into the Oliver Place church, over 25 years ago, and was called as its first and has continued its only pastor in all the years since.—Bucyrus Telegraph.

One of Thousands.

And still they come. Wm. M. Bellman, of the well known grain commission house, the Bellman Grain & Seed company, of Toledo, is the latest known convert to democracy and tariff reform. He is now an enthusiast for Cleveland and Stevenson, saying that his republicanism could not stomach Harrison. He says: "I am opposed to the present protection robber system, and therefore will cast my vote for Cleveland and a reform of the tariff." Quite welcome, Mr. Bellman. Next, please!—The Massillonian.

FATALLY SHOT.

Princeton, Ind., Nov. 2.—Abil Montgomery shot and fatally wounded his brother-in-law, Isaac Newberry, three miles west of this city yesterday. Both are well-to-do farmers. There has been a bitter feeling between the two for some time. They met at Montgomery's mother's home where the quarrel was renewed. Montgomery is in jail.

TOO HEAVY A LOAD, MASSA.

MORE RESIGNATIONS.

The Republican Central Committee All Broken Up.

Ashley Is Obliged to Put Up for the Parade.

Futile Attempt to Buy a Polish Paper—Democrats Rallying to the Rescue.

The feud at republican headquarters continues, and more resignations are threatened.

Honest men on the committee refuse to work when Jim Ashley, jr., absolutely notifys them that he has no confidence in their integrity. The man who does not resign under the existing circumstances is simply acknowledging the corn.

There is blood on the moon.

The arrant hypocrite is illustrated in the fact that the republican candidate for congress is making a personal saloon canvass in Toledo. The Preachers' union, which is inclined to berate Byron Ritchie, can have this statement substantiated.

Police Commissioner Doville is doing missionary work among the glassworkers for Ashley. He claims he has them solid. Has he?

The democratic Polish paper is doing good work for Ritchie. An attempt is being made to buy it and yesterday $200 was offered if it flopped to Ashley. The editor promptly refused and will stay by Byron.

Jim Southard's fat-frying circular has not panned out. Officeholders absolutely refuse to be bled, and Ashley's barrel is again on tap.

There was a hot time at republican headquarters last night. Saturday night's parade was discussed, and it was agreed that unless Ashley puts up the "stuff" there will be no parade. Ashley's barrel will be again on tap.

The appeal of the democratic executive committee for funds and men is meeting with gratifying results. Keep it up, boys.

Imported Polish politicians have been hired to "work" the Polish votes in the First Seventh and Eighth wards. The Poles cannot be bought this trip.

Friday evening a democratic rally, at which Byron Ritchie, Barton Smith and others will speak, will be held at Weber's hall, East Toledo. A grand time is anticipated.

New York Is Solid.

In the following letters of Parks Hone, he represents New York as solid for Cleveland:

"Dear Parks: Your letter received some time ago, but I was waiting to see what Grace would do before writing you. He, as you probably know, is the head of the county democracy, which Tammany expected to gather in, but Grace was too slick for them and nominated his own man. The general opinion here is now that if Harrison comes down to the Harlem river with a majority amounting to anything he will carry the state. Tammany says, Cleveland be d——d. What they want is the control of the city, and since Grace has his man in the field for mayor (a county man), Tammany will do almost anything to retain their power in the city. The natural result will probably be that Tammany will throw part of their vote for Harrison, and the republicans will help them out on the city election. Of course, it is hard to tell what Tammany will do, as they are pretty foxy."

"Dear Parks: Since writing you last week, the counties have withdrawn their candidate, and from present outlook and appearances Cleveland will have clear sailing through this state. It is safe to bet on Cleveland carrying the state. Mr. Dwyer has bet $10,000 to $7,000 that Cleveland would carry the state and $1,000 to $500 that Grover would carry Indiana. GOETZ.

ASYLUM DRY GOODS.

Complaint of a Citizen, Which Is Referred to Dr. Tobey.

To the Editor: As a merchant who has done business in Toledo for many years, I beg the privilege of calling attention to what I regard as a very great imposition on those of us who pay taxes and otherwise endeavor to keep Toledo at the front.

The complaint is this: A few weeks since, Dr. Tobey, trustee Geyser and Steward Cahill made a pilgrimage to Chicago and there purchased goods, in the shape of clothing, etc., in a sum running up into the thousands, and the same has been shipped to Toledo and taken to the asylum.

Now, what call was there for this action? Toledoans spent thousands of dollars to secure the asylum in the way of donating land, making roads and the like, and it certainly looks odd that a bill of goods cannot be bought within its borders, not to say anything of Ohio. The legislature passed a law forbidding public institutions from buying Chicago cattle, and sought to prevent outside ruinous competition, but it seems the legislature did not go far enough.

What I want to know, Mr. Editor, is what was the necessity for this big Chicago purchase, and I await a reply.

A BUSINESS BLOCK

To Be Erected on Oak, Between St. Clair and Superior.

George E. Pomeroy Sold the Site Yesterday.

A Genuine Boom in Real Estate—Big Block for East Toledo—Other Sales.

Arrangements are being made for the erection of a large brick and stone building on Oak street, between St. Clair and Superior streets.

Yesterday Mr. Geo. E. Pomeroy sold 50 feet for the site at $4,000. This is only part of another purchase that is now being negotiated.

Mr. Pomeroy, who has sales pending now aggregating $100,000, speaking with a Bee this morning, said:

"The month of October closed up with renewed activity in real estate matters. Inside central property is attracting the attention of outsiders, and non-resident buying is frequent and increasing."

Pomeroy & Co. bought for account of Ralph King, of New York, 30 feet on Superior street, owned by Mrs. Ensign, between Madison and Adams, for $12,000. The purchase is likely to be a permanent one, and eventually a good building will be erected for a desirable business.

For another non-resident they bought 33 feet on Huron street, between Madison and Adams streets, at $11,550. They also sold 62 1-2 feet on Bridge street, near Third street, and contract has already been let to build thereon a block of stores.

Yesterday Detwiler & Co. sold three lots in Detwiler's Hick Farm addition for $875, and houses will be built on the same at once. They also sold to Mr. Lawrence Lahor, a house and lot on Mulberry street, near Yates street, for $1,100.

MR. MAHER

Returns to Mr. Taylor and Hopes He Is Done.

To the editor: There are two or three things in Mr. Taylor's letter, in Monday night's Bee, that you will kindly permit me to notice, and then I will not tax your space until after election—unless I have to.

This is the second time Mr. Taylor advertises the fact of his college education by claiming I was twitting him about it. He is, as usual, greatly mistaken. I know nothing about his education and have seen nothing in his letters that would lead me to suppose he had been in college, or even in the high school. Possibly this is why he mentions it.

He brings us a lot of quotations to show us that the flour business is bad, but the big mill in East Toledo is increasing its capacity 500 barrels per day, and has orders on its books for 50,000 barrels of flour for future delivery. When the manager is asked about price he says he is finding no fault. That's where he differs from Mr. Taylor, who has a little mill, but considers it bad policy to sell his flour as cheap in Toledo as he sells it in Boston.

H. R. EAGLE & CO.'S "BEST" MINNESOTA PATENT FLOUR, $4.49. Our "Best" Patent Flour is made exclusively for us by one of the best mills of Minnesota. It is made from selected No. 1 hard wheat, and we will guarantee it to be the finest flour in the market, and to please every time.

If flour can be retailed in Chicago at $4.49, Taylor's price ought to pay him a fair profit.

A wicked compositor in Monday night's Blade makes me say that Taylor would make flour for 10 cents a barrel profit, and his output of 2,500 barrels would give him a daily profit of $250. It is well known that Taylor's mill has no such capacity, and the man referred to was not Taylor. But he is a Toledo man.

One word to the workingmen. Do not let anyone throw flour in your eyes. The complaint of this Toledo miller lives, moves and has its being in one grievance: Flour is too cheap for his pocket. Had wheat been low and flour high no one would have seen his boyish effusions in print or heard him complain of the McKinley bill.

But God has been good enough to send us, in the past two seasons, an abundant harvest—not that millers might get rich, but that His poor might have cheap bread, and that out of our full granaries the starving of other lands might be helped. The wheat is pouring in; the stones are grinding the flour; the hungry are being fed, and grateful hearts thank God!

But out of this song of gratitude comes one discordant note: A Manhattan miller shaking his fist at God because he must sell his flour so cheap! It would be amusing if it was not so pitiful.

Toledo, Nov. 1. WM. H. MAHER.

EXCITING FIGHT.

Police Stop It in the Fifth Round.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2.—There was an exciting prize fight in Mozart hall, this city, last night, between Joe Foppiano, an Italian fighter of note, and Chris Wrade, a local pugilist. The men weighed in at 150 pounds. Foppiano received the most punishment and when the police stopped the battle in the fifth round Wrade was clearly the prospective winner. About 500 sports witnessed the match.

Gus Hill, the champion club swinger, and variety performer, acted as referee and declared the fight a draw. About $3,000 was up on the result.

Failed to Materialize.

The glove contest between Brown, of Chicago, and Skelly, of Kentucky, which was advertised for last night, failed to come off for the reason that Skelley was not forthcoming at the ringside. He was there, but would not fight. The few sports who took it in were somewhat disappointed.

OHIO NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

Their Only Hope.

The republican congresstional committee have just sent $60,000 into the Fourteenth district to beat Harter.—Bucyrus Forum.

They Are Newspapers Now.

McKeesport Herald, shake hands with the Vindicator. Both of us have $25,000 libel suits. Thus do evidences of great prosperity continue to multiply.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Another "Chris."

Even the closing days of a presidential canvass, with all their hopes and uncertainties, fail to draw public attention from the frowsy-headed chrysanthemum, which this week appears in all its dishevelled glory.—Dayton Herald.

The Very Idea.

Washington affects to have been shocked at the sight of Marie Tempest in tights. The garb of prudery doesn't set well on the national capital, whose conduct is so "loud" as to need no long-distance telephone.—Columbus Dispatch.

Be on the Right Side.

The easiest way for the Ohio man to mark his ticket when he goes to vote is to make an X in the circle under the rooster, and send in another man to do likewise. In this no mistake can be made.—Upper Sandusky Union.

Worse Than Dynamite.

Miss Cozzens, at a recent meeting of the Woman's Emancipation union in London, urged the use of dynamite to secure the right to vote. Somebody ought to have turned a mouse loose on the amiable creature.—Dayton Herald.

Sounds Logic.

The manufacturer always wants the highest price he can get for his goods, and he wants his labor as cheap as he can get it. Now as the protected manufacturers made the McKinley bill just as they wanted it, it stands to reason that they intended it to give them better prices and cheaper labor.—Tiffin Advertiser.

It's All Bosh.

The "wildcat" cry will not cost the democrats a dozen votes in the whole United States. No banks will ever be allowed to circulate a worthless currency under a democratic administration. Every man who reads knows that there is no "wildcating" in Grover Cleveland or M. D. Harter.—Mansfield Shield.

A Last Desperate Effort.

Driven to desperation and beaten at their own crooked methods, it can be expected that the irresponsible and unprincipled republican papers of this judicial district will resort to roor-backs during the last days of the campaign to offset the effect of their mistakes. They should be received with a proper degree of allowance.—Fostoria Times.

A Home Thrust.

The love of the republican bosses for the old soldier is exemplified in their abuse of the gallant old soldiers who vote for Cleveland. Gen. Dan Sickles, Gen. Gresham and Gen. Rea are catching it now. The love of the republican boss for the old soldier is precisely the same as it is for the negro. It is only in so far as he can be used as a part of the party machinery.—Dayton Times.

This for the Workingman.

Four years ago the republicans fooled thousands of voters by the cry of "Harrison and higher wages." Well, they got Harrison, but now four years later not a workingman can be found who has received the higher wages. Laboring men should learn a lesson from this and cut loose from the party which thus deceived and lied to them. Vote with the democrats for better times.—Findlay Courant.

Look at This.

Does labor desire to give monopoly another four years' term to crush labor organizations and reduce wages? Look back at what monopoly has accomplished and labor lost during the past four years. Then look forward to the end of another four years of monopoly rule and conjecture what labor's fate will be then. If you desire to continue the reign of monopoly and the debasement of labor, vote for Harrison, the candidate of the Carnegies and the money-bags.—Zanesville Signal.

IMPORTANT.

The TOLEDO GOLD CURE INSTITUTE, located in the Hartford Block, is meeting with marked success. Scores of testimonials are on file bearing testimony to the efficacy of the treatment. Physicians and others interested in the cure of Drunkenness, Chloral, Cocaine and Morphine habits are cordially invited to investigate results. All correspondence will receive prompt and confidential attention.

OTTAWA COUNTY

Will Have No Use for Ashley on Election Day.

Referring to the Luckey interview which recently appeared in the Bee, the Ottawa County Exponent has the following comment:

That is right. Before the nomination of Ashley the republicans of Oak Harbor and of the county openly said that Ashley was no republican and would be defeated if nominated, as nothing but his money could give him that nomination. He received but one vote in the convention from this county when he was nominated and republicans openly said they would not vote for him. The active republicans of this county have spent their time and money year after year to help the party only to be insulted and trodden upon by the republicans in power. They know that they could not have been treated worse if they had openly sought to defeat the ticket, which is the only way they will gain recognition. If they will resent their repeated insults by downing Ashley they will soon find the republican lords courting their favors in the future, and they can command some influence and their share of offices. We think they will do it and refuse to act the part of the yellow dog under the tail end of the Ashley band wagon.

Three Sleepless Nights

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

MY MESSAGE.

If you will listen you will hear
The sweetest song you ever heard,
Because I sent, on wings of speed,
My heart's best tune by a little bird.

Now, if this bird should tarry long,
And if he sings and sings,
You'll know that deepest tenderness
From me to you he brings.

And after he has sung his might,
Then swiftly flies away,
My message is that love and song
With you will ever stay.

Gainesville, Fla., boasts of a fully developed ear of corn which contains 780 grains. The ear of corn has, it is said, four smaller ears attached, of new growth, which contain 400 grains, making in all a total of 1,180 grains.

The pleasure with which astronomers have learned that the Chicago university is to have a 45-inch telescope—the largest by far in the world—is largely due to the fact that Prof. George E. Hale is the man who is going to use it.

About 1,439 enormous head-dressers came into fashion in England, France, and Italy. They had horns standing out from the head sometimes more than two feet, and from these a veil depended which floated down the back of the wearer.

France wants to alter her coinage so as to avoid being inundated with foreign copper money, often inferior in value to her own. The government would like to introduce some new material for the baser coin—possibly a mixture of bronze and aluminium.

ASHLEY AGAIN SUED.

This Time for Work on a New Building.

The Contractor for the Foundation of the Structure at Jefferson and Huron Streets Wants His Money.

Michael Hanahan, by his attorneys, has filed suit in the common pleas court against James M. Ashley and Emma J. Ashley, his wife, for the recovery of money. The petition of the plaintiff sets forth as his first cause of action that about June 20, 1892, for $9,365 he agreed to furnish lumber and other material and to perform the work of excavating and grading the foundations and putting in the footing stone and doing the stone work on the foundations of the new building on the corner of Jefferson and Michigan streets; that he performed the work satisfactorily to defendants, and received $9,000, and that there is now due $365, with interest from Oct. 1.

For his second cause of action plaintiff avers that in the course of the work it became necessary to properly protect it, to furnish lumber and other material, to hold up the underpinning of the building on the west side, which was built on the line, and with the foundation walls a depth of about eight feet. The foundation extended about 23 feet below the street level, and in excavating the trench for the walls plaintiff had to penetrate through beds of quicksand, which made his work of underpinning both difficult and dangerous. In excavating on the west side and putting in the underpinning and stonework, at the request of defendants, plaintiff was obliged to, and did, support the building by placing in the trenches large quantities of lumber and scaffolding, and was obliged to place a large amount of lumber and timber in the trenches for the purpose of protecting and holding the walls and preventing the trenches from caving in and filling up. All such lumber and timber was left in the trenches as a support and protection for the work, and for the use and benefit of the defendants. By defendants' request plaintiff built water walls in the rear of the building, and furnished therefore material and labor, and built one cold-air box; for all of which he claims $3,353.20, with interest from Oct. 1.

BRYAN NOTES.

Interesting Mention from Williams County.

Bryan, O., Nov. 2.—(Special)—Williams county common pleas court convenes November 15. There are a number of criminal cases to be tried at this term, among them the Burchell brothers, held for murder.

There are several cases of diphtheria in Bryan.

DIED FROM EATING GRAPES.

While Going to Join Her Husband Mrs. Hart is Taken Suddenly Ill.

Delphos, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Charles Hart left her home in Evansville, north of this city on the Clover Leaf railroad to join her husband who had obtained a position as telegraph operator at Labee, South Dakota.

While en route Mrs. Hart was taken suddenly ill and was compelled to leave the train here and go to the residence of her husband's parents in this city. A short time after her arrival she gave birth to a child. In an hour or so she ate a bunch of grapes and was immediately seized with a relapse and died to-day.

ST. MARYS NOTES.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 2.—(Special)—The village of Port Jefferson, Shelby county, is rapidly becoming noted as one of the most fruitful in this section for scandals and sensations. Yesterday morning a white cap notice was found posted, accusing seven men and women of grossly immoral conduct. Stringent measures are needed, it is said, to restore the moral tone of that community.

Judge William A. Carey, formerly a distinguished character in Shelby county politics, died at his home in Orange township, that county, yesterday, aged 86.

I. N. Richardson, editor of the Crestline Vidette, who died in that place Sunday, was buried in this city yesterday. Deceased was formerly editor of the Argus in this city.

GRACE PREDICTS IT.

She Issues a Proclamation and Says Cleveland Will Be Elected.

Editor Buffalo Enquirer:

Grover Cleveland will be elected the next president of the United States. I want the laboring voters to do their duty, and inclose you a short address, hoping your interest in the issue will place it before them and help rescue the government from the ruinous control of trusts, monopoly and subjection.

Yours for Tariff Reform.
GRACE COURTLAND,
Witch of Wall street.

Buffalo, Oct. 19, 1892.

The address is as follows:

To the Laboring Voters of America, Knights and Federation:

Greeting: You are asked to give your votes for Cleveland or Harrison. Your liberties are at stake. The happiness of your lives and homes are in the balance, for weal or woe. A majority of votes rule in a free republic; that freedom is slipping away. The plutocracy of the middle ages is at your door. The greatest good to the greatest number has become a mockery. The iniquity of a reign of trusts has brought you face to face with a slavery worse than death. A robber tariff increasing the cost of necessities and diminishing the scale of wages has brought you to the point of subsistence. The wolf is at the door. Your masters feast in lazy opulence abroad while you starve at home. Driven to desperation, men who were once workers have taken to the highway and will fight before they die. The republican party in the hands of the despoilers has outlived its usefulness. Their arguments are based on falsehood. They hold their power through purchased votes, and they use that power only to destroy. Two presidents have been lost through shameless use of money and the will of the majority nullified. The curse of our taxes is mortgaging your homes. Corrupt legislation is binding the chains upon you. The laws are administered for the privileged few. You ask for a full share of you labor's fruit; you are answered with the state militia. The real disturbers of the public peace are shielded in their iniquity, while the poor house or the jail awaits you. You are threatened with a force bill that deprives you of the last vestige of popular liberty, and by whom? The republican party! Having depleted the treasury surplus, they now seek a new issue of gold bearing bonds by threatening complications at home and abroad. By antagonizing factions of citizens they hope to create a public sentiment against the bulwark of all republics—the honest labor.

Your vote is still left you; use it to destroy the treasury looters, the tariff robbers and the force bill perpetrators. A continuance of the Harrison reign means the perpetual power of trusts, monopoly and subjection. No legislation for your good can be expected under the Lodges, Reeds and McKinleys. Grover Cleveland is the best statesman we have had since Lincoln, and may be trusted to do what he can for you. The times are ripe for new laws, new measures and new men. No more Egans, Raums, or Wanamakers.

A national board of arbitration to adjust the wage questions, government control of railroads and telegraphs, free trade and a sound currency, are a few of the issues at hand. Cast your vote for Cleveland and Stevenson and join the march of progress to a peaceful solution of the vexed questions that should be settled with ballots and without blood.

Yours, for equal rights,
GRACE COURTLAND.

THE HARRISON LOT.

It May Be Changed for a More Beautiful One.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—Although the spot chosen at short notice for the last resting place of Mrs. Harrison is beautifully located on the slope of a gradually rising hill and almost surrounded with leafy maples, there is a force of opinion that a fine circular lot located in a still more picturesque portion of the cemetery should eventually become the Harrison burial place instead of the McKee lot, the latter having been chosen without as complete an understanding of all the circumstances as would have been had but for the short notice.

The people of Indianapolis feel in a sympathetic way a direct share in the memories and associations belonging to such a burial ground, and consequently feel that it is in a measure due that the final resting place of the president's family should be in keeping with the high estate of the chief executive, hence the general feeling that the circular lot in question should ultimately be accepted and be known as the Harrison section.

LIMA NOTES.

Lima, Nov. 2.—Frank Deringer, a pupil in the west end public school, was taken suddenly ill at his desk last Friday. He was taken home and Dr. Hooser summoned, who pronounced the case diphtheria. A BOY'S BATTLE.

It Has Got Into the Schoo Board.

Charge of Cruelty Against Superintendent Compton.

Investigation by a Committee of the Board—The Dismissal of Janitor Pope Also Inquired Into.

Animated was the scene last night in the meeting room of the board of education. Before all the members of the board had arrived there were present, ranged along one wall, a row of children—seven boys and one girl—brought as witnesses in the case of the Gallettes (parents of the punished boy), against Mr. Compton (superintendent of the schools and punisher of the urchin), while scattered about the room were grown people, also on hand to give testimony in the case, wherein Mr. Compton is charged with so severely whipping the boy as to produce St. Vitus' dance, and for a charge of which the victim was innocent. Later still others came in and there arrived a committee of G. A. R. men, headed by Dr. F. A. Kitchen, to inquire into the dismissal of Janitor Peugh from the Monroe street school.

Though Mrs. Gallette was early on hand, her husband did not arrive till later. He was accompanied by Moses G. Bloch, attorney, who sat on one side and took things in at his leisure, till his turn came. Meanime Mr. Eversman suggested that the Peugh case be taken up and disposed of, as everybody knew all about it, and it would not take long. Others of the board preferred to get through with the Gallette affair first, and let the little folks go home.

Mr. Gallettee having arrived, he was at once asked for a statement. He said that on the Friday before Decoration Day his boy and some others had some difficulty on the way home from school. He made inquiry and found his boy not to blame. He wrote to the teacher and asked her to make investigation, but didn't receive any note from her. The boy came home and said the teacher told him she would have to turn his case over to Mr. Compton, who would punish him. He (Gallette) said he thought not, and wrote another note; but Mr. Compton whipped the boy unmercifully. Examination showed about seven ridges across his back and five on his right arm, the latter nearly bringing blood. He (Galette) was so mad he didn't know what to do, and told the boy to get his books and come home. The teacher would not let him have the books, saying it was against the rules of the school. He went and asked her who was training the child, he or she, and told the boy to take his books. The boy was so nervous after the whipping that he could hardly stand up, and later complained of his arm being weak ever since Mr. Compton whipped him. His mother noticed his hands shaking. Dr. Hammer said he had St. Vitus' dance, and asked if he had been frightened. He was told of the whipping and of the marks, and he said that was pretty good evidence of harsh treatment. He (the father) went to Mr. Schlingman and asked an investigation, but he didn't know. He went a second time and they had some words over it. He asked Messrs. Eversman, Kohn and Shuck to bring the matter up, and it was put in the hands of a committee. He was advised to bring the child, and was afterwards censured for doing so. He had one witness in the state of Illinois, who could not be got here, but Mrs. Galette could tell about the marks on the boy.

Mrs. Gallette was called on and declared that the child came home whipped unmercifully, and so nervous that he had to lie on the lounge. He suffered all night. She said: "I think if Mr. Compton had heard the child moan all night long, he'd have been fully satisfied with his doings."

Then came the testimony of several of the boys who had been engaged in the original trouble, and who had been whipped at the same time as the lad Gollette.

Willie French was called by the complainant. He told of the fight going home from school. One of the boys asked Harry Gallette if he would fight, and he said yes. Others promised to help him; but didn't. Mr. Compton gave them all a whipped at the same time as the lad Galgot it harder than the rest. Harry asked the boys to come over to his side and fight. The teacher had whipped one boy, who told a story and got others a whipping, and the fight started over that. They were all whipped for fighting. When Harry got the worst of the fight he ran home for his father. Witness thought Harry got whipped harder than he, and was sure none of the others got it harder than he did.

Some of this information was brought out by questions asked by Mr. Compton and Assistant Superintendent Hutchinson, and now Mr. Bloch stated that he had been retained to look after the interests of Mr. Gallette and asked the privilege of appearing on his behalf, as others were asking questions.

Mr. Schlingman, who occupeid the chair, said Mr. Gallette could ask any question he liked. Mr. Gallette remarked thot he would like Mr. Bloch to ask questions for him. The chair ruled that he could not, as this was not a legal tribunal.

Other boys were now called by the defense and questioned by Mr. Hutchinson. Herbert Newberry told of the fight being arranged in school and of the whipping. He thought Harry Gallette got the hardest whipping.

Mr. Compton read a letter from Julia E. Hunter, a teacher, concerning the Gallette boy and his character. It was very bad. She held that he was formerly afflicted with the same nervous complaint. He carried home tales, got others into trouble, and was shown to be the instigator. She gave an instance of his lying out of doors on the damp ground, and of her sending him home.

Mr. Gallette here stated that it was the first time he had heard of the boy being sent home, and added: "I think that's not so."

Mary Froh, a teacher, told what she knew of the fight. Next morning she received a note from Mr. Gallette telling her to investigate. She did so and found Harry had begun the fight. All the boys said that then, whatever they said now. Harry's brother came and told her she should not touch Harry. She reported to Mr. Compton, who came and also found Harry had started the trouble. This was not the first time, but the third or fourth. Eight boys were whipped. At noon Harry coolly said he guessed he'd have to take his books. She didn't trust him, and told him to bring a note or his father. Mr. Gallette came with him and got the books. She didn't think the boy was much hurt; he staid till noon, and came back after his books. She had seen him on Columbus day, and he appeared all right. She had more trouble with him than any of the others. He was one of a gang. They were on hand except one, Louis Hemphill. Mr. Gallette had sent her a note in which he dared her or Mr. Compton to lay hands on his boy.

Mr. Gallette said he'd like to see that letter. He had not threatened anybody; but thought he had referred to higher authority.

Mr. Compton declared he could almost quote the words. They were: "I warn you not to touch him, and dare Mr. Compton to lay hands on him."

Mr. Gallette—"No, sir; that wasn't in that letter."

Asked about other witnesses, the father said Dr. Hammer promised to be present; but that the boy would not, as the least excitement would cause a relapse. The committee then obtained some learned expert information from Drs. Collamore and Van Pelt upon St. Vitus dance, its causes and condition, its victims. The doctors agreed that any fear or nervous excitement would produce it, and that if the cause was single it would appear in three or four days, that some constitutions are predisposed to it, and Van Pelt declared that a vicious disposition sometimes went with such nervous temperaments. Cigarette smoking would tend to the disease, also overwork, or any nervous strain or shock. Swimming too much would aggravate it.

Mr. Gallette denied that the boy had been bathing on the day that had been stated, as he was with him all day.

The chairman said he might be wrong as to the day; but two or three who were with him said he was in swimming after, and he sent word to Mr. Gallette to keep out of the water.

In answer to Mr. Hutchinson, Mr. Eversman said the boy had been to his store asking for work some days after the whipping.

The other boys in the fight were then examined. Willie Pierce, Robert Douto, Fred Prouty, Harry Vorbau and Loye Beebe all knew something about it. They differed from the other boy witnesses in thinking that Harry Gallette didn't get whipped any harder than the rest, particularly as he had on pants, and they only stockings on their legs.

Mrs. Galette asked young Pierce if he didn't begin the fight, and when he answered "No, ma'am," she cried: "That's quite a different story to what you told the other day," and Mr. Galette declared: "Two or three of the boys told me Harry didn't commence it, and now say different."

Mrs. Galette: "You have been talking to them."

Mr. Galette: "You told them they'd get something for coming."

Mr. Hutchinson protested. He told some of the boys they would be entitled to witness fees after it was over. He then asked several of the boys what he had said to them, and all stated that he only told them to tell the truth.

Mr. Gallette didn't see why he could not have some one to ask questions, as there were two or three doing it on the other side.

Mr. Kohn, who had come in after proceedings began, was in favor of Mr. Block acting for Mr. Gallette, but was overruled.

Mr. Block was heard long enough to state that after the remark of the chairman that he had three competent witnesses, he did not particularly desire to take part in the examination. His client had redress in court and he was glad a hearing was denied him by the committee. It was an injustice.

The chairman explained that he only referred to witnesses of the bathing, which had nothing to do with this investigation.

After the questioning of the lad Douts Mrs. Gallette declared he said different to what he said before, and that the boys had been intimidated. The boy acknowledges that he had told her differently. He didn't know then who began the fight, but knew all about it now.

Mr. Bloch was heard on a suggestion to save time. He held that the investigation was not upon the character of Harry Gallette, but as to whether the superintendent had whipped him brutally or moderately. Assuming, for argument's sake, that the boy was incorrigible, the main question remained. No doubt somebody was going to be vindicated, either Mr. Compton or Mr. Gallette. Then why all this circumlocution?

Mrs. Gallette declared there was no use asking questions. They had questioned these same boys, who told different stories before than they did now. Her boy had been sick ever since.

Harry and Lily Robling were called to show they had been ill-treated on the street by Harry Gallette. He had torn and soiled the boy's waist and jammed his umbrella into that of the girl. Mrs. Gallette explained that it was a windy day, and the umbrella episode was merely an accident. She didn't see the use of bringing such trifles in. In answer to questions she stated that the boy had not been sickly or delicate before.

Miss Cassiday, a teacher, had seen Harry Gallette several times, and he appeared all right. Mr. Lyons and Kelaher testified to the trouble they had with him in school.

Mr. Gallette, asked if he had anything to say, remarked he had brought Mr. Bloch to do his talking. The chairman said they would be glad to hear from Mr. Bloch, who sarcastically expressed his surprise at that privilege being accorded him when too late.

Mrs. W. A. French, who accompanied Mrs. Gallette, now asked if Mr. Compton had the right to whip a child for carrying a note sent by his mother. Mr. Compton threatened to do so. Her boy came home with blood on his arm, and she wrote the teacher an insolent note; but was not ashamed of it and would have it published. Mr. Compton said if the boy brought such a note again he'd whip him. This was ruled out as irrelevant.

The case of Janitor Peugh was then taken up. Dr. Kitchen was heard for Toledo post G. A. R., which wanted simply to know the facts, so as to determine whether they justified the dismissal.

Mr. Eversman stated that Mr. Peugh had told him there was some very severe whipping going on in the school. He went to the school, saw Mr. Hudson, who said it would be all right. He saw Miss Sargent, and after a conference they agreed it would be better to say no more about it. A few days after, Mr. Compton came with a paper recommending Mr. Peugh's suspension, signed by Messrs. Broer, Hubbard, Schlingman, Schuck and Zirwas. He didn't think it quite fair to an old man of 61, who should have a hearing. Mr. Compton declared it must be done right away, as the man was unfit, and got quite angry about it.

Mr. Compton: "Oh, no."

Mr. Eversman: "That's right, Mr. Compton; you got quite angry."

It developed that there was no charge of incompetency against Mr. Pugh, but on testimony of Miss Sargent and Miss Mansfield it was shown that he had expressed himself freely against corporal punishment, and spoke to the teachers about its infliction; had denied the authority of the principal or superintendent and told Mr. Compton to be careful or he would be investigated. A petition was read, signed by the teachers of the school, praying that Mr. Peugh be not reinstated, in the interest of the discipline of the school.

Mr. Eversman asked if the petition had not been inspired by the superintendent and assistant.

Miss Sargent stated that two of the teachers were present to answer for themselves.

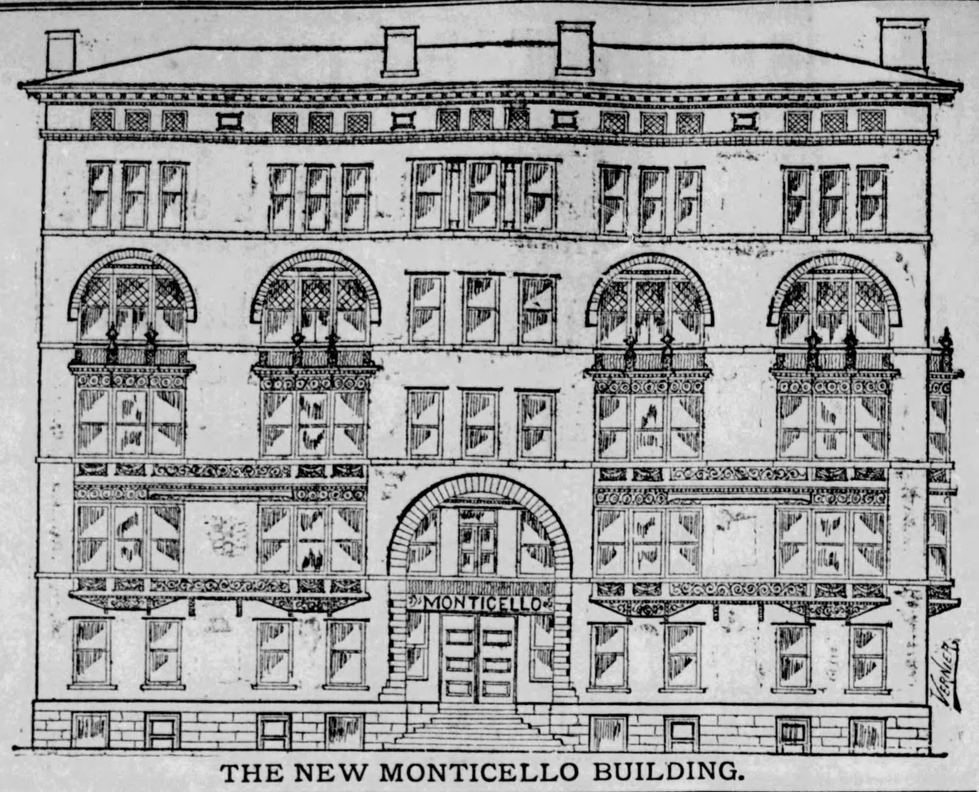
Mr. Peugh was heard and explained that he held his right as a citizen did not cease because he was a janitor. He didn't care if they whipped the whole ward. In a conversation with some of the teachers the question of corporal punishment came up and muscle was referred to. As Miss Sargent was the biggest he reached out and felt her arm and said he wouldn't like to run against that.

Miss Sargent here arose with blazing eyes and cried: "There was never such a conversation. I am not in the habit of having the janitors feel my muscle!"

Mr. Peugh denied that any of the teachers had ordered him out of their rooms; but Miss Sargent declared they had told her they requested him to go.

Mr. Kohn thought Peugh's dismissal was because of the interest he took in having the janitors' salaries raised, but Mr. Trost stated that while favoring the increase he voted to discharge Peugh. After some discussion as to whether the janitors were subject to the board or the teachers, and the respective rights of teachers and janitors, and another speech from Dr. Kitchen, the meeting broke up at 10:25 p. m.

The committee will report on both matters at the regular meeting of the board next Monday evening.



THE NEW MONTICELLO BUILDING.

THE PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Their Second Annual Entertainment

Last Evening Was a Grand Success—Music, Tableaux, Supper and Dancing.

Although the rain kept up a steady dreary drizzle last evening it did not affect the attendance at the second annual hop and entertainment of the Pythian Sisters at Pythian Castle. An enjoyable program was carried out early in the evening under the efficient direction of Will S. Stackhouse.

The first number was a trio, Frank Anlitta, violin; F. Meissner and E. Hunter, harps. The selection was most enjoyable. Miss Agnes Early, who is making quite a name for herself as an elocutionist, rendered "The Shadow of a Song" in a charming manner. Charles O'Brien as usual did himself proud in his songs.

Misses Agnes Early, Kittie Donahue, Grace Chesebro, Amelia Zoerb, Lou Marshall, Gertrude Nelsen, Ella Stroud, Frankie Shepard, Kathleen Haynes, Margaret Brew, and Eva Daley participated in the tableaux. This was the best part of the entertainment. The grouping was excellent and the effect of the gauze curtain and the calcium light was charming. The young ladies were heartily applauded.

Prof. Poulin delighted his hearers with a finished rendition of "I Am Waiting" by Bursch.

Little Edna Smith gave a recitation that was a feature of the evening. Although young she has remarkable dramatic ability.

Frank Anletta, who is an earnest student of the violin, delighted his hearers. Mr. Anletta has a true conception of powers of the instrument.

Gus Leibius is always on top with his graceful dancing. Last evening he gave a song and dance entitled the K. P. Ball, written for the occasion by Mr. Stackhouse.

The entertainment concluded with a laughable burlesque on second sight by Messrs. O'Brien and Leibius.

An excellent supper was served and dancing followed in the main hall.

The following committee had charge of the affair which was a grand success in every way:

Arrangement committee—Mrs. Wm. Couldwell, chairman; Mrs. Ida Brower, Miss Carrie Kohn.

Reception committee—Mrs. Mary Freidlander, Mrs. Nellie French, Mrs. Nancy J. Tripp, Mrs. Amy DeForrest.

Floor committee—Messrs. Wm. Couldwell, G. D. O'Neil, A. L. Breed, J. S. Hattenbach, C. B. Bargman, A. J. Marker.

Swift's Specific.

The old time simple remedy from the Georgia swamps and fields has gone forth to the antipodes, astonishing the skeptical and confounding the theories of those who depend solely on the physician's skill. There is no blood taint which it does not immediately eradicate. Poisons outwardly absorbed or the result of vile diseases from within all yield to this potent but simple remedy. It is an unequaled tonic, builds up the old and feeble, cures all diseases arising from impure blood or weakened vitality. Send for a treatise. Examine the proof.

TOOR PAUNCY HOME,

To Keep Him From Getting Into Trouble.

The British Minister Can Come Back Now That the Campaign Is Over.

Liverpool, Nov. 2.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister to Washington, who has been sojourning in his native land for the past few months, sailed today on the Majestic for his post of duty. It is generally understood that Sir Julian's absence was timed so as to enable him to escape the embarrassments to which Lord Sackville-West fell a victim four years ago, and it is hinted that hereafter it will become an established custom for her majesty's emmissary to Washington to absent himself during the quadriennial tail twisting process on this side of the Atlantic.

Sir Julian will return to America thoroughly posted upon his government's attitude on the fisheries question, and it has been given out that Mr. Gladstone will adhere to the policy already marked out by Lord Salisbury in the previous negotiations.

A NOBLE CAUSE.

Commander Dean.

Commander James S. Dean, of General Grant Post, G. A. R., Rondout, N. Y., contracted an aggravated stomach trouble in the Army which resulted in chronic dyspepsia. Physicians without number prescribed but he suffered untold misery until he used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y. "After using it a week, says Commander Dean, I felt better, and in a short while was entirely cured, that terrible distress and food breaking up sour in my throat had all gone. To-day, there isn't a healthier man on earth. Comrades! if you're not well, try this great medicine on my recommendation, it's guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

"I desire, says Quartermaster Wilbur L. Hale, of Pratt Post, G. A. R., Kingston, N. Y., to request my Comrades to use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, if troubled with Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Constipation, Rheumatism, Kidney or Urinary Troubles. It cured me of a most horrible case of Salt Rheum. Physicians gave me up but Favorite Remedy healed every sore, strengthened my nerves and muscles. I now enjoy life."

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Oct. 26, 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to

at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purchase of Sewer Improvement Bonds to the amount of Twenty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($27,500) Dollars, bearing date October 17, 1892, and payable as follows: $2,750 on April 17, 1893, and $2,750 at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including October 17, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place, as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said Improvement Bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2708 of the Revised Statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio. "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the construction of Sewer No. 271, in Sewer District No. 25, in Nevada street, from the Maumee River to Spring Grove Avenue."—Passed September 19, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $750 and two each of $1,000, and thereafter one of $750 and two each of $1,000 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the awards made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the City of Toledo, Ohio," and be endorsed "Proposals for Sewer Improvement Bonds."

JAMES H. PHEATT, City Auditor.

THAT SUGAR TRUST

Will Not Increase Prices of Any Toledo Merchants.

The wholesale grocers of Toledo, while adoping the so-called "Equality plan," have no direct connection, they say, with the sugar trust.

Inquiry at Berdan & Co.'s by a Bee this morning revealed the fact that all the wholesale grocers in Ohio have adopted the "Equality plan," which means simply that sugar will be sold throughout this state at one regular price now established. There will be no more slashing and cutting of prices.

Toledo merchants, if they would sell in Michigan, must not sell higher or lower than the established price in Michigan, and so elsewhere.

The wholesale grocers in Ohio have vantage they derive from it will be the difference in freight on carload lots and small consignments.

A circular on the subject says:

"The advantages of the plan lie not only in the increased profit, but in the fact that it permits all legitimate competition, tends to prevent cuting of prices, and has been found by experience in the east, to be a satisfactory and practicable method of doing business, and, in addition to this, it is understood that the plan is strongly favored by the American Sugar Refining company.

WHIPPED TO DEATH.

Brutal Conduct of a Southern Farmer.

He Beat His Little Daughter With a Strap Until Life Is Extinct.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 2.—Dorsey Goodin, of Timminsville, deliberately beat his seven-year-old daughter to death Saturday. He whipped the child with a large leather strap, having an iron buckle on the end, for twenty minutes and then picking the little girl up hurled her to the floor.

She died shortly afterwards.

Goodin is in jail and threats of lynching are heard.

THE COLUMBIAN CLUB

Will Entertain for the Ladies.

The Columbian club held their regular meeting at the club house, 332 Michigan street, last evening with good attendance and besides disposing of routine business received four new members and two applications for membership.

It was decided that on next Wednesday, November 9, a special reception for the wives, daughters, and sweethearts of the members of the club will be held at the club rooms, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The house committee will have charge of the affair, and will spare no pains to make it an enjoyable one.

It was also decided to receive election returns at the club rooms by wire.

This arrangement will relieve the monotony of crowded rooms and the many disagreeable things attending a public waiting place.

Waiting for the returns will be made a matter of pleasure instead of torture.

The committee having the matter in charge are: Messrs. M. J. Cooney, J. B. Busse, and John Mauley.

Laverne, Rock Rapids, Madison Parker and a few other points report falls. The weather is mild and snow melting rapidly.

BEHIND THE SCENES,

Wilbur and Dorothy Morton Have Some Trouble.

The Plot of a Temperance Town at Wheeler's.

Kind Words About Miss Anna Belmont, of This City—The White Slave Making a Hit.

It has been announced from Cincinnati that Dorothy Morton, who married ex-Treasurer Rowe, of the People's theater in this city not long since, and who has been singing the leading parts in the Wilbur Opera company, had left the company at Cincinnati, and the place had been filled by one of the chorus girls. On Monday Mr. Wilbur had to resort to the law for a remedy against Miss Morton. He says she was engaged for a year ending July 1, 1893, as a soprano soloist, at a salary of $72.50 a week and necessary expenses. He alleges that she failed to appear for work last Sunday, and threatened to break her contract. He therefore asks that she be enjoined from doing so, and be compelled to fulfill her contract.

Miss Morton says the cause of the trouble was the refusal of Mr. Wilbur to allow her to be off duty last Saturday afternoon, as she thought she was entitled to be. She went despite the refusal.

Miss Morton was served with the injunction. She says she is worn out with singing twice a day and needs rest. She also says she has an offer from another company with larger salary and less work.

To add to the trouble which resulted in the suit against Miss Morton by Mr. Wilbur, a suit for damages is now threatened against him by Messrs. Harris, Britton & Dean for breach of contract. The suit will probably be commenced in a few days. Representatives of the theatrical firm mentioned say they have gathered enough evidence to make it very warm for Wilbur.

Those on the staff of Harris, Britton & Dean are outspoken in regard to the trouble. They claim that it can be shown that Wilbur is working all his cards to wreck the business of the house. They say that after making a contract with the Harris people he secured an interest in Heuck's, together with Brady & Garwood, of Toledo, and asked that his date at Harris' be cancelled. The firm refused, and Wilbur made the remark that he would get even.

The first stroke, it is alleged, was keeping Susie Kerwin out of the company while in Cincinnati. The firm, it is said, will show that Susie was able to go on at any time during the engagement, but she was kept out of the city for some reason. The next cause for complaint was Dorothy Morton leaving the company. It is said that she had ample cause for leaving, and that she will not return. The Harris people say that the last straw was the foisting of a chorus girl upon them to take prima donna roles, who can neither sing or act the parts.

Their contract calls for Kerwin and Morton, while they claim that they have ample cause for asking damages, as business has fallen off fully one-half, and it can be directly attributed to the poor performances given by the company during this engagement, as compared with those given upon former occasions.

A Toledo Actress.

Miss Anna Belmont, says the Pittsburg Weekly Bulletin, a pretty little girl, who reminds us of Fanny Rice, and who we think we must have seen as Susan McCreery in "Held By the Enemy," is very good as Madge Ricketts, an impetuous young girl. She is naturally an ingenue, and does not tire her audience by being too silly, which is the common fault of young ladies playing that style of part. She has made a hit in "Imagination," and it is all the more enjoyable because somewhat unexpected.

Plot of A Temperance Town.

An enthusiastic audience witnessed A Temperance Town at Wheeler's last evening. The story of the play is as follows:

An old clergyman in a Vermont village wages war with the liquor seller in the place. He is actuated by a sincere conviction that drinking is wrong, but that conviction had its origin in the loss of a beloved son, as it appears, through liquor. Assisting the parson are several rogues who make their zeal in prohibition's cause a cloak for private schemes for gain. The saloon keeper is an old soldier who lost one arm in battle. His child is sick and the clergyman's daughter sends good things to the ailing little one. She also sends a warning in the same box with the things for the child of the raid upon the saloon her father and the other prohibitionists are planning. The warning letter falls into one of the latter's hands, and the clergyman turns his daughter out of doors because she will not express contrition for her sin. The stern father, after this noble performance, cheerfully trots off to deliver a temperance lecture at the church. The audience hears a bit of this lecture wherein the drinking man is described as a brute, while it sees the village drunkard pick up the clergyman's daughter as she lies fainting in the snow outside the church and carry her to his home. This climax, wrong as it may be morally, is effective enough dramatically, and Mr. Hoyt makes a mistake in capping it with the uproariously laughable discomfiture of the temperance people who fall over the treadle left on the church steps.

In the last act the saloonkeeper is brought up for trial on the charge of liquor-selling and convicted. He is just being fined 6,000 odd dollars, with an alternative of 50 years' imprisonment, when the son of the prosecuting clergyman, supposed to be dead, turns up a rich man, and recognizes in the one-armed saloonkeeper the man who saved his life in battle. The prodigal son pays the $6,000 fine without flinching. The old clergyman, of course, melts, takes back son and daughter and the play ends. The audience having laughed heartily and enjoyed all the story, goes away with a rather hazy notion that there is a moral in the play somewhere.

A matinee is in progress this afternoon and another performance will be given this evening.

The White Slave.

Those who desire to witness a strong play presented by a company of artists it would be hard to excel. Such names as Carrie Radcliff, Maurice Drew, Frank Drew and Milt. G. Barlow insure a good performance. The People's should be packed the remainder of the week.

The Elliott Family.

The Elliotts are making a hit at the Wonderland this week. They give a strong performance in the theater, together with a number of clever specialty people. Big Eliza and a number of other attractions are amusing the visitors in the musee.

Leaves of Shamrock.

Friday evening the well known Irish star, J. P. Sullivan, will appear at Wheeler's in a new Irish comedy-drama, Leaves of Shamrock. He comes well recommended and will doubtless draw a large house.

WHAT! "WANTED—A YOUNG LADY, well educated, attractive appearance, with $8,000, wishes introduction to gentleman; permanent situation; from 21 to 40; view, matrimony. Call at once and let us begone."
Young lady, leave off sighing,
To your empty arms we're flying.
To engage.
We are not too good or naughty,
Too respectable or sorry,
And from twenty-one to forty
Is our age.
Seven thousand "quid" and kisses,
We have dreamed of luck like this is—
Dreamed of taking such misses
Off the shelf;
You will wonder why the deuce you
Pined alone, you little goose, you,
When we come and introduce you
To ourself.
We are strong and highly mettled,
Fresh as roses dewy-petalled,
And on getting nicely settled
We are bent.
As regards our occupation—
Your hymeneal relation
Will be in a situation

Charles A. Howes Confesses to Having Swindled People All Over the United States.

New York, Nov. 2.—Charles A. Howes, an expert forger, who has traveled from one end of the country to the other and proudly boasts that he had swindled banks and merchants in every state in the Union, was arrested yesterday afternoon and is locked up at police headquarters.

Howes has made a full confession of his crimes.

He said he began life as a real estate agent in Grays Harbor, Washington.

His first forgery was on the Denver Lithographic company to pay for one thousand drafts on the bank of Elmer. With these he traveled, passing them everywhere, until they gave out, when he secured a new supply from the Union Bank Note company, of Kansas City, these on the First National bank of Park City, Utah.

He has swindled banks all over the country. He said he was on his way to Nicaragua when arrested. His wife is in Yonkers, N. Y., and does not know he is a criminal.

A BUNCH OF DATES.

The Political Equality Club's Reception.

During its short existence it has been able to do much for the cause of equal rights in a proper dissemination of suffrage sentiments.

Its object has been not only to interest women in the cause, but to instruct them how to act intelligently, to know what they are asking for, and how to perform properly the duties that will come with the granting of suffrage. Hence the parliamentary drills and study of civil governments.

Considering the unpopularity of the suffrage work the club has reason to be proud of its progress, and it proposes making the annual meeting a sort of jollification.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock a reception will be held in the parlors of Mrs. E. Quigley, on Tenth street.

No business will be transacted and the occasion will be of a social nature.

Every member of the club is cordially invited to be present and bring their friends.

The Toledo Woman's Suffrage association is meeting in the Fort Industry block this afternoon.

The Union of Unions holds the monthly meeting at the Washington Street Congregational church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the guests of Henrietta L. Monroe union.

The New Century club will hold the next meeting with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, on Twelfth street, the paper to be read by Mrs. Elizabeth R. Collins.

The Colloquial club will meet Friday afternoon, November 11, at the home of the Misses Law, 1231 Huron street. Mrs. Howe will read the paper, on "Rational Amusements for Middle Aged People."

The monthly meeting of the Humane society occurs Tuesday evening, November 8.

The Central union held a business meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. S. Eck, on Madison street.

Henrietta L. Monroe union met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Stevens, on Dorr street, but on account of the rain but few members were present, and no business was transacted.

The Home Aid association met in Odd Fellows' temple last evening. There was a small attendance and little besides routine business was attended to. Two applications for membership were received.

The ladies of the Flower mission of Trinity church will serve a hot lunch in the church parlors, Saturday, November 5, from 12 to 2 o'clock. The proceeds will be used to carry on the good work of the mission.

The "Y's" will hold their meeting at the parlors of the First Congregational church on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The topic of the day will be "Dress," and it will be discussed by Miss Carrie Berry Phelps.

The entertainment committee of the "Y's" is making progress with the annual entertainment, which is to be given at Wheeler's early in December. The presentation will be called the "Y's" studio.

The Unitarian Ladies' union will be entertained by Mrs. A. J. Sprague, 1907 Monroe street, next Friday (4th inst.) at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

AGONIZING ECZEMA.

Awful Suffering. Driven Almost Insane by Doctors. Tried Cuticura. Relief Immediate. Entirely Cured in 4 Months.

I suffered with the dreadful eczema for over six months, during which time I had consulted three doctors, and this tormenting skin disease had grown worse and worse on me in spite of all medical treatment. My condition was unbearable. My legs were swollen, my arms were raw, my face and neck full of eruption, which made me scratch until my whiskers were soaked and pasted with the sickly fluid. I could hardly bear my clothing. When night came I was afraid to go to bed, no sleep would come to relieve me, but the itching would increase. During day time I had no rest, I was all broken up, nervous to the highest degree, and nearly driven to despair. At that time I read about the CUTICURA REMEDIES, intended to try them, and dropped the doctors. After applying CUTICURA I had the first night's rest for several weeks. Using the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, with proper judgment, my condition improved slowly but surely day by day, until after three to four months' use of them I was cured. Our minister, Rev. J. G. Parrault, in Mandan, knows me and knows how I suffered. Any one may write to him and he will certify to the truth of this testimonial.

E. B. STEINBRUECK,
Mandan, North Dakota.

SPANIARDS VERY ANGRY

Because Their Government Was So Slow

In Paying Respect to the Memory of Columbus.

They Rioted in Madrid and Tore Down the Speaker's Platform.

Madrid, Nov. 2.—The city has not yet recovered from the excitement caused by last night night's demonstration.

The people are greatly irritated by the utter failure and apparent inability of the municipal authorities to provide proper entertainment during the Columbian celebration, and the riot was intended as a forcible reminder that the people expected and must have a change for the better.

The exhibition itself was opened without ceremony of any kind, and the authorities, both state and municipal, have shown an almost utter indifference to the question of maintaining the credit of Spain in connection with the commemoration of Columbus' great discovery.

The Spaniards have heard of the demonstrations in America and Italy, and their pride is touched at the failure of their own country to present a spectacle worthy of the nation which sent Columbus on his expedition to the west.

The Spaniards are anxious to be enthusiastic, if their rulers will give them an excuse.

They blame Queen Christiana for not taking the proper part of royalty on such an occasion, and they also blame the ministry for not impressing the queen with her duty to Spain and its memories.

The crowd of several thousands which assembled on the Prado last night vainly waiting for the promenade open air concert was large composed of respectable people and included a few of the upper class.

The failure of the municipal authorities to provide the concert was regarded as culminating evidence of their complete incapacity, or lack of appreciation of popular sentiment, and after a while the grumbling heard here and there turned into a general murmur of disappointment and anger.

Some one cried "Down with the platform." Then there was a general rush for the platform, and in a few moments they were a heap of of ruins.

The police vainly tried to restrain the mob. Nobody attacked the police—a sign that the mob was of the better class—but nobody paid any attention to them; and on the rioters swept from the Prado into the Calle Puerta del Sol.

"Down with Canovas" they cried, and here and there were muttered shouts against Queen Christiana, but these evoked no sympathetic echo.

The rioters smashed all the lamps and the windows of public buildings, as they rushed about the center of the city. Then they made for the residence of the mayor, and caused the streets to echo with shouts of "down with the mayor."

This they kept up for some time until they had left no doubt to their feelings regarding that functionary, and then, without offering any violence, they quietly dispersed.

The personal column of a New York daily contains this golden opportunity: "A well educated young man of good social position will marry any lady of means who will provide funds for him to procure a divorce from his present wife, whom he cannot get along with."

KEEP AN EYE ON WYOMING

Three Electoral Votes Likely To Be Lost to Harrison There.

Democratic-Populist Fusion Has a Show of Success.

Unpopularity of the Republican State Administration Causing Defection From the Party Ranks.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 2.—Three state and three national tickets are in the field in Wyoming. They are the fusionist, comprising the democratic and people's party; the republican, and the prohibition.

The plan of fusion as arranged by the democrats and populites is that the Weaver electors are indorsed by the democrats, who have withdrawn their electors, and the democratic state ticket of governor, congressman and supreme judge is indorsed by the populites. The two parties have divided the county and legislative tickets upon a basis proportionate to the strength of each in the several counties of the state.

Under this arrangement the various state and county committees of the two parties are working in harmony, and with every indication of taking Wyoming out of the list of republican states.

Although the state has been looked upon as hopelessly republican, the peculiar issues of the present contest are such that straight party lines are being broken down, and it is probable that the state will be lost to Harrison and that its three electoral votes will go to Weaver. There are thousands of democrats in the state who have waited patiently for many years for an opportunity to vote for a president of their faith, and yet so important is it that the republican state administration be driven from power that to accomplish this they have cheerfully given up their long-looked-for privilege.

At the last election, which was the first state election, 16,032 votes were cast, the republican majority being 1,700. At that time the republicans had the prestige of having, through a republican congress and president, accomplished statehood. Woman suffrage, too, was claimed as one of the results of republicanism. These factors contributed materially to republican success, but with them and having a weak candidate at the head of the democratic ticket, the republican majority was but 1,700.

In the present campaign the old issues are lost sight of and new ones of greater importance are before the people. Statehood has brought increased taxation, and the two years' experience has demonstrated that the bright promises of the republican promoters of statehood have proven false.

Two important questions will decide the present political fight. The more important is the "invasion." The other is the proposed arid land law introduced in the senate by Senator Warren.

The "invasion" was an armed expedition of large cattle owners, who, with a number of hired "bad men" from Texas, invaded Johnson county in April last for the ostensible purpose of lynching a number of stock thieves supposed to live in that county. The expedition was officered by Major Wolcott, an ex-United States marshal; William C. Irvine, a state live stock commissioner, and John N. Tisdell, a state senator, all prominent republicans. The surgeon of the expedition was Dr. Penrose, of Philadelphia, who, when the expedition was organized, was the guest in Cheyenne of Acting Governor Barber. The expedition moved from Cheyenne with all the "pomp and circumstance of war" unmolested by the state authorities. In Johnson county two men were murdered and a ranch burned before a general alarm aroused the settlers. The sheriff of the county, with a posse of settlers, hemmed in the invaders and would have captured the entire outfit had not their friends, Senators Warren and Carey, secured the military from Fort McKinney and rescued them.

The invaders were held by United States troops several months before they were placed in charge of the military authorities. They have secured a postponement of legal proceedings until next year, and now are at large upon their own recognizances.

Although the people of northern Wyoming were convinced that the real object of the raid was to intimidate small settlers and drive them from the country so that the range might be held by the big stockmen, and although there seemed no prospect that the invaders would be punished, yet they continued peaceably to follow their usual avocations. Accordingly there was general surprise at the proclamation of June 6, by President Harrison, which directed the people of the state to disperse and proceed to their homes.

During the past six months the sole aim of the state administration, the federal courts and the Wyoming congressional delegation seems to have been to shield the invaders and humiliate and insult the small settlers and ranchmen of the state. Witnesses against the invaders have been kidnapped and run out of the state; newspapers that stood up for the rights of the settlers have been boycotted and suppressed by the money and influence of the stockmen; troops have been sent into the state by the United States authorities; Johnson county citizens have been arrested and held in enormous bail for trivial charges and efforts have continually been made to stir up trouble that would justify the declaration of martial law. The people are putting the responsibility for these abuses squarely upon the shoulders of the republican party of the state and its leaders, Senators Warren and Carey.

Another element in the campaign is the arid land bill, introduced in the last congress by Senator Warren. The majority of the people, perhaps, favor the cession of the arid land to the states if it be done by methods which will insure small settlers and farmers absolute ownership of their lands and prevent large land syndicates or corporations from gaining control of the public domain. Senator Warren is at the head of a company which now owns or controls more than 250,000 squarely upon the shoulders of the republi now owns or controls more than 250,000 acres of land in Wyoming. It has more than 30,000 acres of government land inclosed by fences. Senator Carey also has a large tract of land in the state. Under the provisions of the Warren bill both Warren and Carey could secure at nominal rates of rental contiguous lands to those they now have under fence in sufficient acreage to double their present holdings.

The republican candidate for governor is Edward Winson, an illiterate but wealthy retired banker. The democratic candidate is John E. Osborne, a successfull business man, who is making a brilliant stump tour of the state. An aggressive campaign is being carried on by the democratic state committee under Chairman A. L. New, and speeches are being made nightly in all parts of the state. The people realize that if the republican state administration be kept in power another invasion is among the possibilities. They realize that the present contest is one for the preservation of their farms and homes, and a reversal of the republican majority of two years ago may be looked for.

ERUPTION OF THE SKIN CURED.

Ed. Venney, Brockville, Ontario, Canada, says:

"I have used Brandreth's Pills for the past fifteen years, and think them the best cathartic and anti-bilious remedy known. For some five years I suffered with an eruption of the skin that gave me great pain and annoyance. I tried different blood remedies, but, although gaining strength the itching was unrelieved. I finally concluded to take a thorough course of Brandreth's Pills. I took six each night for four nights, then five, four, three, two, lessening each time by one, and then for one month took one each night, with the happy result that now my skin is perfectly clear and has been so ever since."

A Michigan woman has patented a device for securing glass in the doors of stoves and furnaces, in order that the process of baking may be watched without opening the doors, and also to save fuel by decreasing draughts.

HUDSONS!

WINTER OVERCOATS!

It is astonishing what a trifling difference in cut and get-up makes one Overcoat a model of style and another a monument of slouchiness. Getting just the right goods built into Overcoats in just the right way is the secret of the elegant garments we are showing. The know-how must start with the looms; no let up till the tailor's finishing touch leaves the stamp of perfection. All of our fine Overcoats we selected from the materials, and had them made by the best manufacturers to our ideas of style and length. If you want the best Overcoat, latest style and best making, this is the store and the time.

Buy a cake of SAPOLIO. It is a solid cake of Scouring Soap used for all cleaning purposes except the laundry. Try it.

You are judged by your house just as much as by your dress. Keep it neat and clean and your reputation will shine. Neglect it and your good name will suffer. Do not think that house-cleaning is too troublesome; it is worth all it costs, especially if you reduce the outlay of time and strength by using SAPOLIO.

To the Ladies:

Call for Fermentum, the only reliable compressed yeast, and see that unreliable goods are not palmed off on you. By using Fermentum you are sure to have good Bread and Biscuit.
